

IN ANOTHER month, President Coolidge will "have congress on his hands," and there are indications that he plans to assume that aggressive personal leadership which his temperament and traditions have made him reluctant to undertake.

Let us hope so. For better or worse, the Roosevelt precedent, that what congress does is chiefly the president's business, is still our only refuge from inefficiency and inaction.

We may some day devise a better system, but until we get it, there is nothing to do but operate as we are.

His policies, so far as the people know and understand them, have their support. If there are any new and unfamiliar ones, the confidence of the people will tend to bring them to follow the president's lead. What they want is for congress to do so. Only vigorous insistence by Mr. Coolidge personally, using the weapons which his office gives him, can accomplish that.

ONE of the developments of the work of the League of Nations in preventing another Balkan war, the articles should be dictated to the linotype five minutes before the last edition goes to press, with the telegraph wire clicking the last news as the proof was read.

THEN the comments might last until the next edition. That method of instantaneous up-to-date news being impractical, it is sufficient to observe that if the war is prevented it means that the league has attained its majority.

Greece evidently will keep exactly as much peace as it must. It will try to save face by pretending if it can that it yields to some thing else than the league. But for once, the league is united determined and effective.

It will take many precedents of this sort to establish the prestige of the league as invincible, but this one has gone a long way. Europe at least, is tired of war.

WHEN "dops" became more and more expensive, the first result was to increase dope-inspired crime. If the addict required more of the drug that he could pay for out of his legitimate earnings, he often resorted to crime to get the extra money.

But now, when better enforcement has made the forbidden narcotics even more expensive, the effect has been to make many addicts cure themselves. The cost was more than they could meet from earnings and stealing together, so they quit, or drastically reduced the dose.

Something the same is beginning with bootlegging. The fewer bootleggers, and the higher the price, the fewer their customers. Economy and reform are mutually supplementary.

A SACRAMENTO coroner's jury held that a deaf man cannot be held for manslaughter if his car kills a man in an accident caused by his deafness, since the accident was "unavoidable."

This, to be sure, is "coroner's quest law," but if there is any basis for it, it means that persons whose disability makes danger "unavoidable" should not be permitted to drive cars. There are deaf persons who insist that deafness does not disqualify them from driving. But certainly none of them could get a job driving a locomotive, a street car or a taxicab. At any rate, whoever is licensed to drive a car should be conclusively presumed to be responsible for his driving.

Prepare to Place Coast Defense Gun

WILMINGTON, Calif., Oct. 31.—Brig. Gen. John W. Joyce, of the U. S. army ordnance department, arrived here today to start preparations for installations at Fort MacArthur of the war department's big new 14-inch cannon. The huge gun, enroute here from the east, is to be installed on December 5. Weighing 650,000 pounds, the cannon shoots a projectile of 1650 pounds. It has a range of 23 miles.

Soviet Commissar For War Succumbs

MOSCOW, Oct. 31.—M. V. Frunze, Soviet commissar for war, died here today, following an operation for ulcer of the stomach.

The operation left his heart in a weakened condition. During the day, it was necessary to resort to injections to keep him alive, but despite this he sank rapidly until death came.

Frunze assumed the important war post after Trotsky's retirement.

Deny Formation Of Baking Trust

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—General denial of the reported formation of a $300,000,000 baking "trust" was made by the directing heads of the three baking corporations, said to have been involved in the merger, the federal trade commission announced today.

M. F. Hudson, chief examiner of the commission, represented the reported baking merger and advised the commission that while nothing could be done at this time it is a matter that should be "held open for any further development."

Steamboat Line To Be Extended

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—The Southern Pacific company today was authorized by the interstate commerce commission to extend the operations of its Sacramento river boat line to the east side of San Francisco bay.

Origin of Hallowe'en

Hallowe'en was first instituted by Pope Gregory IV, in the middle of the eighth century. The people of those days were hero worshippers, and there were many saints. The birthday anniversary of each saint was celebrated by a religious ceremony.

Headquarters here today by Deputy U. S. Marshal Sydney J. Shannon and Chief of Police Eugene A. Fornes.

Nicely refused to state whether the men had been arrested and refused to say where they were taken.

Liquor investigations with the federal authorities, which have extended over a considerable period, and an undercover, which has been running through police headquarters here, is believed to have precipitated the action.

"My tongue is tied, I cannot tell you whether they have been placed under arrest or not, but I will say that arrests have been made," said Nicely, when questioned concerning the mysterious action.

For the last three years the Record, a morning newspaper, has been owned and operated by William Randolph Hearst, of New York. It will be continued as a morning publication, according to announcement of the transfer.

Land Is Set Aside For Park Purposes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Temporary reservation of a 62-acre tract of land in Humboldt county, California, for outdoor recreational purposes, was authorized in an executive order issued by President Coolidge today.

The tract lies on the Pacific ocean, along the Redwood state highway, making it accessible to residents of the vicinity and tourists using the road. The area forms part of what is known as Clam Beach.

Farmers Will Descend on Washington

DEMAND VOICE IN FRAMING OF U. S. TAX BILL

Agricultural Bodies Are Raising Fund for Attack Before House Committee

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C. Oct. 31.—Out of the west came word today that the farmers are gathering for a descent upon congress to make their voice heard in the framing of the nation's new $300,000,000 tax reduction bill.

Word was conveyed to the house ways and means committee today that agricultural organizations are raising money for a concerted movement along the lines of the campaign for farm relief two years ago, when hundreds of farmers came to Washington to relate their woes.

One banking news agency here has received 14 letters from banks in towns scattered over the middle west, telling of the movement which has not yet been revealed by representatives of farmers' organizations in the east.

These letters relate that the farmers are particularly impressed with reports which have reached them that the taxes on jewelry, work of art and inheritances are to be lowered in the new tax bill, while the automobile levy and some others in which they are interested may not receive a heavy slash.

FORMER OFFICIAL WILL DENY GUILT

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Counsel for Col. William L. Miller, Wilmington, Del., former allied property custodian, who was indicted with four foreigners and three foreign corporations here yesterday on charges of conspiring to defraud the U. S. government out of more than $7,000,000, said today he would have his client in court to plead "not guilty" next Wednesday.

The federal grand jury was "hoodwinked" into returning the indictment, Colonel Miller's attorneys said. Miller was in New York today, but would not make a statement.

The four aliens are accused of "working through Colonel Miller and others" in positions of trust and responsibility at Washington to obtain cash and Liberty bonds held as part of the German property seized by the U. S. government at the start of the war.

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The Rev. The evangelist and the girl were brought back here from Lansing, Mich., Mrs. Emma Sturtevant, wife, charges desertion.

POLY GRIDDERS BATTLE TIGERS ON S. A. FIELD

BULLETIN
Dawson plunged through center, for a touchdown in the second quarter. Score, Santa Ana, 7; South Pasadena, 0.

Beneath cloud-flecked skies that offered ideal playing conditions, Santa Ana high school's crack football team, hailed as the finest to represent this city in recent seasons, underwent another severe test at Poly field here this afternoon when it lined up against South Pasadena's fighting Tigers who held high hopes of knocking the locals from the top place in the Coast Preparatory league standings.

The contest attracted the largest crowd of the gridiron campaign to date. Half an hour before game time the big Poly grandstand was virtually filled and there was a steady stream of persons marching down on the athletic enclosure. It looked like a capacity "house" would see the teams battle.

Ball failed to gain, but Santa Ana was penalized five yards for offside.

Ball failed to gain at center. McCormick failed to gain at left guard and Pasadena was penalized five yards for offside. It is third down with 15 yards to go. Colby made three yards over right tackle. Mullen made three yards through center, giving Santa Ana the ball on downs on its own 28-yard line. English failed to gain around right end. Dawson was stopped at center with-out gain. Walker kicked off of bounds to South Pasadena's 30-yard line.

Mullen got away on a 13-yard run around Santa Ana's left end. First down on South Pasadena's 41-yard line. South Pasadena backs are big and they have lots of drive. McCormick made two yards at center. Ball made five yards over left tackle. Colby made one yard through center. Fourth down, two yards to go. Mullen kicked to Dawson. Dawson failed to gain on a criss-cross play. Walker fumbled on Santa Ana's 25-yard line and Colby

NEW ANGLE OF ATTACK LOOMS IN ARMY TRIAL

Mitchell's Counsel Seeks Paper War Department Is Said to Have Suppressed DOCUMENT IS MISSING

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 31.—The project of the defenders of Col. William Mitchell to summon President Coolidge as a witness at the court-martial of the flying colonel was practically abandoned by them today and a new plan of attack considered.

While Col. Sherman Moreland, judge advocate of the trial, which stood in recess until Monday, was examining three San Antonio newspapermen to whom Mitchell gave the statements that caused all the trouble, Representative Frank Held, Republican, Illinois, chief counsel for Mitchell, prepared to demand from the war department an important trial document he charged had been suppressed.

Collapse of the plan to summon the president came when investigation showed that only Colonel Moreland had power to issue subpoenas in the cases and an inquiry put to Moreland showed that he would refuse the defense's request, if made. The document, which the Mitchell defenders now seek, is the letter which Secretary of War Davis wrote to Maj. Gen. Eli Helmick, inspector general of the army, ordering the investigation of the Mitchell charges.

It was disclosed at the trial Thursday that this was omitted from the papers served on Mitchell and it whetted the defense's curiosity for "any papers and correspondence" which may have passed between President Coolidge and Davis, which also may be asked.

COURT DECIDES ON MUNICIPAL LIABILITY

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—Establishing the exact liability of municipalities in cases of negligence by employees, a ruling of the state district court of appeals was on file here today, affecting all cities of the state.

The ruling affirmed judgment of $1000 against the city of Los Angeles to Jose Bertiz for the death of his son when struck by an automobile operated by W. C. Boston, city garage employee.

A municipality is liable, according to the court, when its agents are engaged in non-governmental activities, but is not liable when such agents are performing governmental functions.

Prefers Death To Life Behind Bars

CLEVELAND, O., Oct. 31.—In a voice broken with sobs, and with tears in his eyes, John Koscienski, convicted of first-degree murder in the bomb slaying of Policeman Stanley Lewandowski, today pleaded with Common Pleas Judge Walter McMahon to give him death instead of life sentence.

"I didn't do it. I am not guilty," Koscienski insisted, when brought to the bar for sentence. Koscienski muttered that he did not blame the judge nor jury for their part and then shouted:

"I don't want to go to prison for life. Why don't you send me to the electric chair?" Judge McMahon explained he had to sentence him to serve his life in prison because of the jury's recommendation for mercy.

WOMAN BANDIT STEALS $4900 STORE PAYROLL

(By United Press)
PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 31.—A lone woman robber held up a money car of the Roberts brothers department store at noon today and stole $4900, according to a story told by Philip Jones and Ennis Prichard, store employees, as they were leaving the United States National bank in the crowded business district, the woman bandit appeared, they said.

They were starting their automobile to take the money to the department store, when she stepped into the back seat of their car and asked if she might ride "as far as the store."

Before they realized what had happened, she pulled a revolver against Prichard, who was driving, and ordered him to go to Sixth and Columbia streets, in the residential district.

There she transferred the money to her handbag and ordered the men to drive on. They did so, fearing some other man might be with the woman, but the following:

The woman bandit was clad in a knee-length fur coat and was heavily veiled, they said. She was perhaps 35 or 40 years old, according to their description.

Jones is a department manager for the Roberts brothers' firm and Prichard is a responsible employee, it was said at the store.

POLICEMEN HELD BY DRY SLEUTHS

FRESNO, Oct. 31.—Guy Shou, formerly a lieutenant of police, Captain of Police Alfred L. Truesell and Detective Sergeant Clifford Sayre, were spirited from police headquarters here today by Deputy U. S. Marshal Sydney J. Shannon and Chief of Police Eugene A. Fornes.

Nicely refused to state whether the men had been arrested and refused to say where they were taken.

Liquor investigations with the federal authorities, which have extended over a considerable period, and an undercover, which has been running through police headquarters here, is believed to have precipitated the action.

"My tongue is tied, I cannot tell you whether they have been placed under arrest or not, but I will say that arrests have been made," said Nicely, when questioned concerning the mysterious action.

Government Proposes Purchase of Farming Tracts And Sale on Easy Terms

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 31.—Holding forth homes and work, Argentina is seeking to attract immigrants from Europe, President Marcelo T. de Alvear told me in an hour's interview in his home, during which he discussed the leading problems confronting his nation at this time.

"After much consideration," said President Alvear, "I have evolved a plan which I believe will have a decided effect in attracting the highest class immigration to Argentina."

"I have presented for the approval of congress a plan for purchase of large tracts of fertile agricultural lands near the railroads, which will be subdivided into farms and sold on easy terms to immigrants with a long term of years for payment."

Lure To Ambitious Men
"There is no lure so potent to ambitious, hard-working men as the certain prospect of obtaining quickly and relatively easily a home and independence."

"It was the promise of land—a home that attracted hundreds of thousands to the United States in the last 50 years, and this great influx was one of the foundations upon which the development of the United States was based."

Speaking of the United States, President Alvear pointed out that it has much in common with Argentina, and he said he hoped to visit the United States as soon as he completes his term in the presidency.

President Alvear's plan to solve Argentina's immigration problem follows many years of futile effort by Socialists and Communists to compel breaking up of the republic's great landed estates. On these estates, thousands of non-landowners are employed with virtually no prospect of ever owning sufficient land upon which to build a house.

Landowners Control Legislature
Heretofore, the landowners have been the legislators and they have resisted efforts to disintegrate these holdings.

In these cases, "high class immigrants" have not sought to make their living from the land, but have remained in the cities to engage in trade.

It is estimated that the great stretches of Argentina could support 80,000,000 people, as against the 10,000,000 who now reside in the nation—2,000,000 of them in Buenos Aires.

The post-war period saw a considerable rush of European immigration, much of it undesirable, which led to labor difficulties and social unrest. This brought restrictions upon issuance of visas abroad. Also, some United States immigrants sought to make fortunes in the new land of opportunity but learned to their sorrow that considerable capital was necessary under the present land-holding arrangements.

Sleigh Bells Jingle In Pennsylvania

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—Breaking all records for October snowfall, a white blanket lay today over the northeastern part of the United States.

The New England states were under six and seven inches of snow in some sections, while New Jersey reported the heaviest fall for this time of year within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Sleigh bells jingled in Pennsylvania, where the snow made roads impassable for automobiles.

In New York, snow started falling early Friday morning and persisted into the evening. Temperatures averaged 20 degrees upstate. Philadelphia is in the grip of below freezing temperature.

SENATE WATER COMMITTEE ON MEXICAN JAUNT

(By United Press)
EL CENTRO, Oct. 31.—Members of the senate committee on irrigation and reclamation, after a lively hearing here on the Colorado river situation, journey into Mexico today for an inspection of the levee system along the controversial tributary.

Imperial valley representatives accompanied the inquisitorial solons to point out the alleged extravagance and danger of maintaining the expensive protection levees along the Colorado.

After the excursion, the senators leave for Yuma, Ariz., where they are to be entertained Sunday, leaving in the evening for Phoenix, where another Colorado river hearing will be held on Monday.

The local hearing was enlivened with some dramatic oratory by Senator Henry F. Ashurst, Arizona, who served notice on Mexican irrigationists that they must "cease applying the water of the Colorado river to more lands in Mexico."

"I serve notice that, from this hour, the United States, and Arizona in particular, will not be bound by claim to any higher acreage of Mexican lands than is now irrigated," he declared.

RED GRANGE WINS FOR ILLINOIS, 24-1

FRANKLIN FIELD, Philadelphia, Oct. 31.—Red Grange, the great Illinois halfback, ran wild in the mud of Franklin field here this afternoon and almost single-handedly gave a fighting Illinois team a 24 to 1 victory over Pennsylvania, reputed to be one of the strongest teams in the east.

A narrative of the game would be a successive "Grange here, Grange there," and Grange did this and Grange did that. The famous football hero from the middle west carried the bay 38 times and gained 363 yards.

He made one run of 60 yards for a touchdown, a second of 14 yards for a touchdown and a third of 24 yards for a third touchdown.

Expected U. S. to Join

The United States, he seemed to take for granted, would one day join the league movement.

"When that day arrives on which the United States takes its seat at the council table," he observed in matter of fact fashion, "the family of nations will be complete and the league will benefit greatly through the marvelous economic and moral force of its adhesion."

He had been asked to sketch his views on Locarno and the league. Full of the subject, intensely optimistic, he acquiesced.

"Europe," he said, "enters a new era of peace, which was instituted at Locarno. The efficiency of the league council in dealing immediately and satisfactorily with the Greco-Bulgar border incident, itself a delicate problem, such as always liable to arise in the congested Balkans, indicates how decided Europe has become to allow nothing, however small, to develop into a conflagration which would again throw men at one another's throats."

The atmosphere of Locarno existed around the council table at Paris and this succeeded in settling the Greco-Bulgar incident before it grew out of hand.

"This is the first actual demonstration of the ability of the league's machinery to function promptly and efficiently, and we are pleased at the results."

COMPLAINT ON PARIS MANDATE IS SENT LEAGUE

Complete Revolution Reported to Be Raging in Area North of Damascus

VILLAGES ARE RAIDED
French Insist They Will Not Again Shell City; Native Hatred Increases

GENEVA, Oct. 31.—Protests of the League of Nations mandates commission from Syria relative to the French administration of the Syrian mandate, were referred today to France for explanations. These are expected to come before a special session of the commission in February.

(By United Press)
LONDON, Oct. 31.—An Evening News dispatch from Hama, Syria, today reported that complete revolution prevailed to the north of Damascus. Telephone wires were reported cut; motor cars were stopped within 10 miles of Damascus and passengers were robbed.

Strong bands of men from Damascus were reported attacking the villages to the north in revenge for the villagers' refusal to rise up against the French.

Damascus itself was reported quiet, but strong revolutionary currents were said to be manifesting themselves there as a result of the French for their recent bombardment of the city.

The French have guaranteed that there will be no further bombardments, but have barricaded all streets with barbed-wire and have razed garden walls in the desert city to guard against ambushes.

RECALLED FRENCHMEN DENIES FAVORITISM
PARIS, Oct. 31.—General Sarraill, French Syrian high commissioner, recalled to Paris, cabled the foreign office a denial of reports he had favored Frenchmen above other foreigners in the matter of warning before the recent Damascus bombardment.

He reported Syria calm except between Homs and Damascus. The foreign office stated that, if League of Nations investigators, as reported, had arrived at Beirut, they were enroute to Mosul and were not probing the Syrian situation "which has not provoked action of the league."

The government intends to send a civilian to Syria as high commissioner in place of Sarraill.

BRAND FORESEES ERA OF PEACE

PARIS, Oct. 31.—Aristide Briand, France's foreign minister and the League of Nations' council president, believes an era of peace is to supplant the old era of war.

Further he foresees that one day the United States will take a seat in the "family of nations" and thus complete the league.

The league, he held today, in an exclusive interview with the United Press, has proven its worth in settling the Greco-Bulgar conflict, and it can do even more.

Fired with the triumph of his work at Locarno, which had been crowned with the new victory for peace in the council, Briand was viewing the world through roseate glasses.

Expected U. S. to Join

PORTLAND BOY CHARGED WITH BURGLARY HERE

Louie Jackson, 17, Portland youth, is being held in the Orange county jail on a burglary charge, following his arrest at 2 a. m. today by Officer E. E. Perry, who is alleged to have found on his person a quantity of cigarettes, candy and chewing gum, stolen last night from the Adams Lunch, 409 North Birch street.

Perry accosted the boy near the Birch street entrance to Birch park. He acted suspicious and the officer brought him to the police station, where the goods were said to have been found on his person.

A bunch of keys, found in Jackson's possession identified as those belonging to G. W. Purkey, real estate man, of 409 Birch street, and which were said to have been stolen from a desk in his office last yesterday, according to the police.

Police have not determined the hour when the Adams' place was entered, but a pass key was used. Several pennies missing from the cash register in the place have not been accounted for, leaving police to believe that the youth may have had an accomplice.

Jackson will be brought before Judge Marks, of the Juvenile court, on the charge, probably Monday.

Jackson is alleged to have told the police he had just arrived in Santa Ana, that no one accompanied him and that he entered the place because he was hungry. He gave his street address in Portland as 182 Disko street.

The American Legion Halloween Dance scheduled for tonight has been cancelled.

WATER CONSERVATION WORK INCREASES ARTESIAN BASIN SUPPLY, CUTTLE MAINTAINS

Water conservation work on the Santa Ana river has been effective in increasing the underground supply in the San Bernardino artesian basin, it was revealed in the annual report of Francis Cuttle, of Riverside, president of the Water Conservation association, a copy of which was received here today.

Particularly significant at this time, according to the report, is the fact that despite three successive years of subnormal rainfall, the average height above the top of seven artesian wells in the San Bernardino district, as shown by pressure, was 39.67 feet above the ground in 1925, compared with 35.43 in 1924, and 38.49 in 1923, an increase of 6.13 feet in three years, notwithstanding the deficient rainfall of the three years mentioned, culminating in a precipitation of 10.88 inches for 1924-25, compared with an average of 16.05 for the 55 years for which records are available.

The improvement in water conditions in the artesian basin of the San Bernardino district, as President Cuttle points out, is directly traceable to water spread in 1922 by the association at the mouth of the Santa Ana river, east of Highlands, which increased the flow of Warm creek and other streams rising in the basin. In 1922 80,000 acre feet was spread, a moderate amount in 1923, far less in 1924 and none in 1925, when no water was available for the purpose.

Bears Out Contentions

The result bears out the contention of engineers that water travels underground at the rate of one to one and one-fourth miles a year. As the spreading ground is about five miles from the artesian basin, as shown by the pressure record, is still flowing into the basin in 1925, notwithstanding three years of drought. The facts also bear out the testimony of Dr. Robert T. Hill, as given in court, to the effect that anciently the Santa Ana river flowed westerly along the base of the mountains through what is locally known as the "grabbins."

The average depth of water below the top of seven surface wells on the rim of the basin shows a drop of 6.35 feet during the last year, the average level now being 28.63 feet. This, the report assures, shows that the water spread follows deep channels to the artesian basin, and does not replenish surface wells as rapidly as the artesian wells. Nevertheless, the water in these surface wells is 14.64 feet higher than it stood in 1911, when water spreading began.

What is shown is increased water supply in territory below the debris cone on which water has been spread as compared with other localities where it has not been done.

The report goes on to review the activities of the association during the last year following the meeting held in Riverside September 4, 1925, when it was unanimously agreed that every effort should be made to increase the scope of work of the Water Conservation association. The exact manner of procedure will be determined after receipt of the report of the state engineer, now engaged in making a complete investigation and plans for the conservation of water in the Santa Ana river and its tributaries. This work is being pushed under the immediate supervision of Paul Bailey, deputy state engineer, and Engineers George S. Hinchley, of Redlands, representing San Bernardino county; A. L. Sonderger, representing Riverside county, and J. B. Lippincott, representing Orange county.

An appropriation of $25,000 was secured from the state, matched by an equal sum through the co-operation of boards of supervisors of the three counties, to cover the cost of this preliminary work.

When nations are converted to the idea of resorting to this court of justice for friendly discussion of differences, rather than matching armies on the battlefield, war will be impossible.

ORANGE COUNTY SCOUTS REVEL WITH "SPOOKS"

The first spook hunt of the Orange county Boy Scouts held at Orange county park last night was acclaimed a great success by 600 people present. Both Scouts and friends and parents were most enthusiastic in commending the success of the evening.

The evening program started off with a big basket dinner.

At 7:30 o'clock the official Scout whistle blew and announcement was made that a note from the "Witch of Skeleton Hollow" had been found telling how to find a great treasure that had been buried somewhere in the park. After following from note to note through the darkness, stumbling over trees and water, scattering the entire length of the park, the crew finally found a ghost, a goblin and a witch. The witch was hardest to find but after she was found she led the way to the treasure which consisted of several bushels of red apples.

Then came the pumpkin rush. Twenty-one pumpkins weighing between 75 and 100 pounds each were placed in the middle of the field, and the Scouts were divided into two teams, one the "Pumpkin Eaters" and the other the "Pumpkin Smashers." After 15 minutes of grand and glorious fighting the "Pumpkin Smashers" came off with 20 out of the 21 pumpkins safely carried away behind their goal line.

Then came the camp fire with pie eating and apple bobbing. The camp fire was closed by awarding Star badges to the following Scouts: Scout Virgil Brewster, and Scout Wilbur Griffin of Huntington Beach troop No. 2; Scout Clarence Logue of La Habra troop No. 1; Scout William Friend of troop No. 10, Santa Ana; Scout Harold Goddard, Orange troop No. 1; and Scout Alva Williams, troop No. 3, Santa Ana. The frolic was closed with a short prayer.

ILL HEALTH CAUSES POST RESIGNATION

Ill health has forced D. W. McDannald to retire as secretary of the chamber of commerce at Escondido, it became known here today. Whether McDannald will make his home in Santa Ana is not known here.

The Escondido secretary for many years was Orange county representative in the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce and is well known throughout the county through this and other boosting activities he has engaged in here.

"After 18 months' sojourn in your midst—the most pleasant and satisfactory period of my life—circumstances over which I have no control make it seem advisable that I now resign my post of responsibility—the secretaryship of your chamber—and try to regain the most cherished blessing of life—health," McDannald said in his written resignation to the board of directors.

Walker got away on a criss-cross, cut in nicely and reeled off a 12-yard gain as quarter ended. It was Santa Ana's first down on South Pasadena's 22-yard line. Score: First quarter, 0 to 0.

Fullerton Woman Granted Divorce

Aaron Hess of Fullerton, was 50 and had been married 31 years when he tired of hum-drum home life and abandoned his quiet fire-side of nights, to seek gaiety in the public dance halls.

That was the story told to Superior Judge R. Y. Williams by Hess's wife, Althea W. Hess, and it won her an interlocutory decree of divorce, which was on file today.

Hess apparently entered with enthusiasm into his pursuit of bright lights and bright eyes. His wife displayed a huge packet of alleged love letters, which she said she had intercepted during the last year since the dancing orgy commenced. They were written by other women to her husband, she said. Judge Williams hastily waived the reading of the missives into the record, and the details of elderly amours were spared pitiless publicity.

The decree was granted on grounds of cruelty, Hess defaulting the case. Attorneys Allen and Lyon of Fullerton, represented Mrs. Hess.

Too Much Tempo When Composer Tramples Pedal

It happens in the best of families, this jaxing of an automobile along the city streets faster than the law seems to think is necessary and because it does, Charles Wakefield Cadman, famous composer, deposited $15 with Judge J. F. Talbott here yesterday.

Cadman's tempo was a little high when he drove an automobile across one of the city's intersections, and he was immediately given an introduction to the city recorder.

Judge Talbott struck a key-note of $15 and the composer, after contributing, in slow time, went back to his home in Hollywood.

There Are Times When Black Cats Bring Disaster

John Sullivan, itinerant laborer, lost his temper and his liberty simultaneously, late yesterday while strolling along the state highway near Irvine.

Sullivan was out of a job and when a black cat strayed across his path he let loose a vicious kick. The cat soared 10 feet in the air and landed, stunned, in the weeds beside the road.

Sullivan walked on, feeling better. But F. G. Yoder, state motorcop, was not feeling better, after witnessing the act. He felt considerably worse and, hailing his car, he arrested Sullivan for vagrancy. The cat was avenged.

This morning, in Justice K. E. Morrison's court, Sullivan maintained that he was a working man and was looking for a job, but admitted that he had no money. In answer to the court's question, he said he depended upon divine assistance in procuring each succeeding meal.

"Well," said Justice Morrison, "you can depend on Sam Jernigan for the next 30 days. That's your sentence."

The Well-Dressed Man

By BEAUNASH
Correct Clothes To Meet The Obligation Of Every Occasion

STYLE IS INTERNATIONAL

Back in the eighteen-thirties Sydney Smith, the English satirical writer, propounded this question with his tongue in his cheek: "In the four quarters of the globe, who reads an American book, or goes to an American play, or looks at an American picture or statue, or follows an American fashion? Smith, like most of his compatriots, held things American in light esteem and, doubtless, he was justified—then. Other days; other ways. American books, plays and pictures now take second place to none, and as concerns fashion both the American man and the American woman are in many respects the best-dressed in the world. That is because foreigners are turned out as types, whereas we are turned out as individuals. Their appearance is more or less standardized; ours is personated. They subscribe to a single fixed code; with us circumstances alter cases.

It is not desirable that styles should be "typically American" any more than they should be typically English or typically French or typically anything else. This would hold fashion down to narrow national limits, whereas correct dress is not national, but international. It is no particular compliment to have it said that "he dresses like an American," but it is a high compliment to look the gentleman, regardless of where one comes from or goes to.

Patriotism is a creditable emotion, but it is not a proper subject for expression in clothes any more than it would be to adopt a distinctive American language or distinctive American manners. Thousands of Americans prefer English woolsens, and Irish and Belgian linens, and Scotch golf hose, and French and Japanese silks. Are they any less patriotic because they happen to like fabrics in the weaving of which foreigners are acknowledged to excel?

The widespread vogue of the double-breasted lounge suit among young men is seriously threatening that of the single-breasted. A spruce double-breasted effect is portrayed in the accompanying sketch. It has the low-slung collar, the peaked lapels, the squarish shoulders, the figure-tracing sides and the snugness across the hips which gives one's figure that well-set-up look of the athlete.

FLAG WINS IN FIRST BOUT OF DIRECTORY WAR

The court has no right to interfere, nor intention of interfering, with competition between directory publishers in Santa Ana. An injunction that the Western Directory company, of Long Beach, wants issued against A. G. Flags, local printer, would be granted only for the purpose of preventing misrepresentation.

Such was the attitude taken late yesterday by Superior Judge R. Y. Williams in the directory war between the Long Beach firm and the Santa Ana publisher. At the same time, Judge Williams sustained a demurrer to the injunction petition, and ordered the plaintiff to amend the complaint, which was held to be not specific as to the matters complained of.

The Western Directory company claims that Flags used a copy of the Long Beach firm's 1925 directory in approaching advertising prospects for a 1926 directory.

Unless Flags deliberately and openly misrepresented that he was gathering advertising for the Long Beach company's directory, no injunction could or would be issued, Judge Williams said. A temporary injunction was denied, and unless misrepresentation is shown when the case comes to trial there will be no permanent injunction either, the court said.

Attorney L. A. West, representing Flags, said that his client did not care to use a Long Beach directory in approaching advertisers, and cared nothing about that issue. He intimated that Flags would not want to show the Long Beach directory as a sample of what he expected to publish himself.

Attorneys Todd, Pawson and Watkins, of Long Beach, represent the Western Directory company.

FLAG ETIQUETTE SUBJECT OF ADDRESS DELIVERED BEFORE P.-T. A. FEDERATION MEETING

Educational methods here and abroad, flag etiquette, juvenile welfare, Mexican settlement work and general organization activities were discussed at the general fall meeting of the Santa Ana City Federation of Parents and Teachers' associations, held last night in the Parish hall of the Episcopal church.

Mrs. Ray B. Spangler, president of the federation, presided over the meeting, which was attended by practically all of the federation officers and chairmen of departments, in addition to the executives of the various local associations.

Among the speakers of the evening were A. J. Cranston, superintendent of schools; Miss Jennie B. Lasby, member of the junior college faculty; Maj. Robert Lee, of Brea, and Mrs. W. B. Tedford, member of the county juvenile committee, and chairman of the Fourth District P.-T. A. department on juvenile welfare.

Business taken up during the evening included the adoption of a resolution, pledging the support and cooperation of the city federation in the campaign that is now being waged against obscene literature, questionable motion pictures and sensational newspaper stories featuring crime.

Tells of Conference. Interesting as well as instructive was the talk given by Miss Lasby, speaking on matters taken up at the International Education conference, held last summer in Edinburgh, Scotland. Miss Lasby was among the California delegates who attended the conference. The conference was attended by 600 delegates, representing 55 different nationalities.

The promotion of international good will and raising the standard of education were the two outstanding objects of the conference, the speaker said.

Mrs. Tedford told of the new Mexican settlement center that has been opened in the old Logan street school, which, she thought, would be an important factor in improving living conditions among the Mexican people.

Superintendent Cranston commended the P.-T. A. on its splendid leadership and progressive activities, and expressed the hope that the service rendered by the organization would attract new members to its ranks.

Flag Etiquette Talk. The principal address of the evening was made by Maj. Robert Lee, who, taking "Flag Etiquette" as his subject, urged greater respect for the flag and the things for which it stands.

He said: "The colonies of men and women who first settled on the shores of what later became the United States were people who had suffered from religious oppression, and had been longing for a place where they could worship as their conscience dictated. Here was their opportunity to blaze the way to religious freedom. Our constitution is evidence of the fact that these nation builders took advantage of this opportunity and put into practice the very principle which is the keynote of our American government."

"When it came time to formulate a government, it was these same men who took pains to see that the principle of religious liberty was drafted into our constitution, so framed and worded that there can be no mistake as to its intent and purpose. Along with the priceless boon of freedom of thought, came those of liberty of person, and equality before the law. But, while America has been an asylum of the persecuted and the oppressed, there never was a time when it has been a refuge for the lawless of other nations."

No Conquest Hopes. "We have been involved in several wars. Having entered these conflicts in defense of humanity and justice, we came out as victors. We did not enter these tragedies in hope of conquest, we had no desire to rattle the saber and display our military strength—these wars were forced upon us. We have no regrets because of our participation in these events, and certainly we have no apologies to offer. As true Americans we are proud of our nation and we honor the principles upon which it is founded. I hope that America always will be found ready to defend these principles wherever they are trampled upon by usurpers and dictators."

"The design of the American flag was not a matter of mere chance. It was not designed to serve as a decoration on house tops and automobile tops. It was designed to symbolize the hopes and aspirations of a new nation, the background is a field of blue which represents the heavens toward which it points; the stripes of white to denote the purity of motive which brought the nation into making; the stripes of red for the lives of those who gave all for their country. The stars represent our belief and adherence in our principles of government."

Growth Is Interesting. "The growth of our national emblem has been interesting. During the revolutionary war we had a flag of 13 stars and 13 stripes. The flag carried in the war of 1812 carried 15 stars and 15 stripes. Again, during the Mexican war in 1848, there were 13 stripes and 29 stars. The Union soldiers fought under a banner that had 34 stars and 13 stripes, while the "Stars and Stripes" carried to the far-away Philippines by the volunteers of '98 had 48 stars. Today we have 48 stars, one for each state in the union.

"When we salute or in other ways show respect for the flag, we not only are honoring the nation, of which we are a part, but we

WOMAN FIGHTS DEN OF SNAKES AND SAVES LIFE

FORT LUPTON, Colo., Oct. 31.—A thrilling story of how Mrs. H. H. Slauterback, living on a ranch nine miles from here, fought a nearly innumerable number of rattlesnakes, killed 140 of the reptiles, saved her own life and that of her 3-year-old child, is being told by residents here.

The woman, with her small child on a pony with her, had started to a pond some distance from the house. Getting off to open a gate, she heard the ominous warning of a rattler. She seized a heavy club that happened to be handy and killed the reptile.

In the meantime, her horse had gotten loose with the child on it. She started to recapture it, but on going a couple of steps was confronted with another rattler.

Mrs. Slauterback noted that she was completely surrounded. Striking one snake, she would leap in front of the deadly fangs of another.

The battle continued, Mrs. Slauterback does not know how long, but guesses it at two hours. The had only carpet slippers on her feet and when she could see her way out of the maze of forked tongues she was nearly exhausted.

The child had hung on the horse and was unharmed. Neighbors went to the battle scene and found 140 dead snakes.

THE FIGHT AGAINST STRONG DRINK

Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might. Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. Wherefore take unto you the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. And your feet shod with the preparation of the gospel of peace. Above all, taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked. And take the helmet of salvation and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God: Praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints; And for me, that utterance may be given unto me, that I may open my mouth boldly, to make known the mystery of the gospel. For which I am in bonds; that therein I may speak boldly, as I ought to speak.

By WM. E. GILRO
Editor of The Congress
Though warfare has been and the warrior armed according to the equipment of Paul's day we stand a sorry chance against the modern weapons, the power of the spiritual forces that Paul symbolized in his description of the ancient soldier standing well armed and prepared has not undergone any change.

Even worldly warfare has altered more in its form and conditions than its essentials. Courage, endurance, equipment, preparedness, watchfulness, care against the arts and wiles of the enemy—all these are as essential for safety and victory as in the days when the first captain led forth his crudely armed soldiers in defense or attack.

And if this is true in worldly warfare, how much more true in the spiritual conflicts of life—the battle against sin and temptation. Here the great forces that battle in behalf of the soul are the powers of the Eternal. God helps men as He always helped men—as they avail themselves of His power, and take to themselves the strength that He offers to the weak.

Paul's Experience
Paul in this appeal to others to put on the whole armor of God was speaking from experience. He tells elsewhere how he had been oppressed with his weakness, until he had heard the Lord's voice saying are "researching" concerning the results and effects of prohibition, viz: that there never was any need to "research" for the effects and results of the drink traffic in the prohibition days. They were always apparent, and one didn't need to go beneath the surface to find them.

But one good thing that the Federal Council's Department of Research has done in its investigations concerning prohibition is to insist that there must be the old sort of sound temperance education and propaganda.

We have been too ready to assume that the law was going to do everything, but the law must be backed up with intelligent action, appealing to the minds and consciences of men, teaching them the evils of strong drink, and the strength and beauty of temperance. The fight with evil is never won until man wins a spiritual victory. Trust in God, prayer, watchfulness, and perseverance will create not only a sober nation, but a race of men gloriously strong.

NOW DOES ALL HER WORK

Has No Backache, No Bad Feelings Because Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Drove Her Illness Away

Milwaukee, Wisconsin.—"I was in a badly run-down condition and I would get weak spells and terrible headaches. I felt so badly last year that I could not do any housecleaning. The minute I would lift or stoop it seemed as if I was going to fall to pieces. I told a neighbor how I felt and she said that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was surely the right thing for me. I took four bottles then and in the fall of the year I took three. I had been treated by a doctor but he gave me an iron tonic and that did not help me. It seemed that the tonic did not have in it what the Vegetable Compound did. That gave me the strength and ambition I needed and I have gained in weight. This year before I started to clean house I got four bottles of the Vegetable Compound and am taking it right along. I tell all my friends about it and how much good it does me. They can notice it because I have gained in weight. I weigh 118 now and do all my work myself again."

Receptions Weddings By Eleanor Young Elliott Phone Nine-O. Social Items Fashion Hints

Hospitable Trio Plans Unusually Pleasant Halloween Event

St. Ann's Inn where the city's social life has centered and which has been the scene of some of the most brilliant affairs imaginable, yesterday surpassed itself in beauty of appointments and charm of surroundings when it was the rendezvous for scores of smartly gowned women, assembling at the invitation of Mrs. Alex P. Nelson, Mrs. John E. Gowen and Mrs. Samuel M. Davis for luncheon and bridge.

Coming upon the eve of All Saints Night, the prevailing motif of the function was that of Halloween. In the foyer where the hostesses greeted their guests, great bowls of vivid golden dahlias, chrysanthemums and daisies were used and of outstanding brilliancy were clusters of autumn leaves which recalled beloved eastern forests to many home-sick hearts.

In the dining-room where tables were arranged to seat the guests in groups of four to twice that number, each table was centered with a black candle rising from fluted orange petals which concealed sugared nuts and Halloween candies. Garlands of vivid orange crossing the expanse of snowy linen, ended at each place in quaint black cats. Luncheon was a pleasant hour with its friendly chat and was followed by a return to the foyer where card tables with their black covers offered striking contrast to the brilliant blossoms and the gay Halloween tally cards. Even the pencils were wrapped in orange and surmounted with black cats.

Scores ran unusually high but highest of all was that of Mrs. M. A. Yarnell whose reward for skill took the form of a handsome brass bowl on a carved teakwood stand. Mrs. Emrys D. White was second and received a bit of brass also, a most fascinating dining-room gong swinging from an ebony standard while Mrs. A. G. Flag was third to receive a prize, a guest set of water jar and tumbler in quaint pottery design. The three were playing in competition with over a hundred others, for 24 tables were called into use for the guests.

Music Recital

A very appreciative audience gathered at St. Joseph's church last evening to hear a beautiful program of sacred music, under the auspices of the choir of the church, directed by Madame Manuela V. Budrow, and assisted by Santa Ana, Fullerton and Anaheim artists. E. L. Flanagan announced the various numbers of the program, which opened with the beautiful "Petit Choeur Triumphant," (Vincenzo) by Miss Geraldine Dolan of Anaheim, who proved herself master of the big pipe organ. Miss Dolan was accompanist for the evening.

The children of St. Joseph's parochial school sang a hymn to the Virgin, their fresh young voices being well trained by the Sisters. Miss Anna Young's sweet voice was well fitted for the rendition of "Resignation" by Caro Roma, and young Merrill Bauer, pupil of Ollimae Enlow Matthews, in his violin solo, "Melody," by Paderewski, acquitted himself well.

Rosewig's "O Salutaris," was a fine number, rendered by Miss Elizabeth Easton, who is a favorite among music lovers, and Arthur J. Smith's tenor voice shone to good advantage in "Be Thou My Guide," by Lowell. Her own lovely "Ave Marie" was sung with great feeling by Madame Budrow, and a violin obbligato by Ollimae Enlow Matthews added much to the majesty of the number.

Jose Sanchez of Fullerton possesses a magpie tenor, strong and vibrant, and his "Agnus Dei," by Bizet was one of the gems of the evening, while the Prayer from "La Tosca," (Puccini) sung by Mrs. J. J. Farley of Fullerton was a powerful plea, her lovely soprano voice thrilling her audience.

Edward Delgado, one of Santa Ana's favorite baritone soloists, always pleases his audiences, and in sacred music he is especially enjoyed. His number was "The Light of Heaven's Own Day," by Briggs. He is a pupil of Madame Budrow.

The four young violin pupils of Ollimae Enlow Matthews, Helen Lutz, Merrill and Jerome Bauer and Donald Woodington in their Larghetto by Dant, were thoroughly enjoyed, and handled their bows with the ease and finish of older artists. The program closed with the great "Inflammatus," from Rossini's "Stabat Mater," sung by request by the choir, and assisted by artists, directed by Madame Budrow. The audience responded liberally to the silver offering, which will be used by the Altar society of the choir to purchase necessary sanctuary articles.

Following the concert, the participants were taken to the home of Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Banks at 702 Spurgeon street, where they were served with delicious refreshments and a happy social time was enjoyed, the artists being showered with hearty congratulations for the successful outcome of their efforts. Officers of the Altar society were the hostesses. In addition to the artists mentioned, there were present Mrs. J. R. Paine, Miss Elizabeth Paine, Mrs. W. E. Bates, Mrs. B. F. McBurney, Mrs. Marshall and Robert Bradford, who was prevailed upon to sing, his beautiful voice being heard in "Friend O'Mine" by Sanderson and "Give a Man a Horse He Can Ride" by O'Hara. Madame Budrow has been asked to repeat the concert in two weeks and is considering the request.

November Bride-elect Is Honor Guest at Kitchen Shower

Miss Mary Maag of Fairhaven avenue was honor guest Thursday at a delightful luncheon at the home of Mrs. William S. Clary, 119 West Nineteenth street, with Mrs. Clark and Mrs. F. M. Miller as co-hostesses.

The afternoon was spent in playing five hundred at which Mrs. William Rowland of Orange won first prize and consolation went to Miss Elizabeth Spohr. Miss Maag received many useful things for the kitchen of the new home so soon to be hers and was properly surprised. The gifts were presented at the tea hour when the delectable refreshments were served.

The guests were Mrs. William Rowland, Miss Anna Oehlke, Mrs. Arthur Hofer, Mrs. Earle Goodall, Mrs. Joe Maag, Mrs. William Maag, Miss Grace Johnson, Miss Elizabeth Spohr, Mrs. George Barrett, Mrs. Walter Hickey, Miss Anne Lieberman, Miss Rose Lieberman, Miss Anna Young, Mrs. A. Miller, and the honor guest, Miss Maag, who will soon become the bride of William Alt-miller of Tatt.

Pretty Parties Of the Week

Halloween Revels
Mrs. W. S. Chandler was charming hostess last night at a delightful Halloween party given at her home, 705 South Sycamore street. Decorations were everything that could call to mind the fact that Halloween was approaching.

The evening was spent in playing five hundred, the prizes going to Mrs. A. B. Chandler and Mrs. Mary McAllister. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sherman, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Chandler and Miss Evelyn Chandler.

At Junior College
Amid gay decorations of yellow and black, the annual Halloween masquerade ball was held last night at Santa Ana Junior college. The affair proved the most brilliant that has been held this year by the collegians. There were more than 100 students present. Varied costumes representing Sahara sheiks, Halloween sprites and even pirates were worn by the dancers.

For the first dances, interest was centered in recognizing masquerading friends. Many pleasant surprises developed when the order to unmask was given. The program of dances included many exciting features. Little crickets were supplied for the ladies' favor and for the retaliatory dance, colored balloons were furnished as men's favors. Symbol dances were highly enjoyable also.

A mild sensation was caused by the raid of a group of "pirates" at the party. After the program had started a company of seven in renegade disguise rushed into the hall to the consternation of the dancers who thronged around to recognize them. During the evening refreshments of elder and doughnuts were served. Credit for the success of the affair was given to Miss Blanche Thompson, college social chairman who arranged the program.

Birthday Event
An interesting birthday was that of Mrs. George Kuechel of North Main street, which was celebrated yesterday. In the afternoon there was a most happy reunion of Mrs. Kuechel and her five sisters, who had not been together for more than nine years. The afternoon was spent in conversation as there was much to talk over. At the end of the afternoon delicious refreshments were served.

In the evening the relatives of Mrs. Kuechel came to help her celebrate her birthday and to meet the sisters so happily reunited. There was much beautiful music as several of those present have remarkable voices and Eric Kuechel is a talented pianist. Near the close of the evening the six sisters formed a sextette and sang a number of old songs that had not been heard for many years.

Those present were Mrs. Ed Gold-er, Mrs. Emily Kloth, Mrs. A. Kalice, Mrs. Fred Struck and Mrs. A. Mensenkamp, who form the sister group with Mrs. Kuechel and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Kloth and son, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Holzgrafs and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gommel and children, Mr. and Mrs. Eric Kuechel, Mrs. A. Metzler, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Kuechel and children and Elbert Kuechel.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Those who are planning to go to the Santa Ana country club Sunday evening for dinner are looking forward with great enjoyment to the party given by Miss Ella Mae Bassett and Mrs. N. H. Hilton. Miss Bassett has a delightful soprano voice and has been in concert work for years and Mrs. Hilton is an unusually talented pianist. Years ago they studied together in Cincinnati so their being together now bids fair to bring them many admirers. This will be their first public appearance together of recent years in fact until a month ago they had lost track of each other and had not seen one another since their student days in Cincinnati.

The Orange Woman's club will present a very interesting program Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the beautiful new clubhouse. As a special feature the club has secured Norma Gould, founder of the Norma Gould school of dancing in Los Angeles, who will speak on "The Dance as a Factor in Cultural Development" and will illustrate her talk by costume dances given by two of her pupils and by herself. This is a wonderful opportunity for club women of Orange and Santa Ana to hear and see this talented

Day Nursery Committee Scores Big Success With Card Party

Gratifying indeed was the success which attended the efforts of that hard-working little group of Ebells members comprising the Day Nursery committee which on Wednesday afternoon staged one of the most delightful of parties at the clubhouse as a benefit for the nursery.

As a result of the party, the committee will have approximately $250 to add to its treasury together with the satisfaction of having given a most pleasant afternoon to a large assemblage of clubwomen. The clubhouse was in gala attire for the event, with many blossoms to add to the effectiveness of the surroundings. Tables were arranged in the lounge, in the section rooms, in the banquet room and even on the stage of the latter.

In all, 368 tickets had been sold for the card party, although some generous Ebells friends who do not care for bridge, returned their tickets to be sold all over again. While bridge was of pre-eminent interest in the afternoon hours, the morning was by no means lacking in appeal, for all manner of culinary dainties, concocted by famous Ebells cooks, were placed on sale in the foyer at an attractive booth adjacent to one wherein articles of fancy work were on sale.

Mrs. Harry Spencer and Mrs. E. A. Noe were in charge of the choice foods while Mrs. E. B. Sprague coaxed the coins from purses of chance visitors by an appealing line of aprons, towels, embroidered linens, quilts and even quaint braided rugs exactly right for Colonial bedrooms.

As cashier who handled all funds, Mrs. L. M. Forey was without equal in the card room, Mrs. Anna Vandermast, Mrs. J. H. Metzgar and Mrs. W. E. Winslow were in charge of the tables. Pretty little hand-painted bread and butter plates were the prizes awarded, and the holder of high score at each table was the one to receive the gift. At the tea hour, dainty sandwiches, tea à la Russe and Halloween candies were served by a bevy of pretty high school and junior college girls.

As chairman of the Day Nursery committee, Mrs. T. D. Knights was the indefatigable worker whose efforts were aided by Mesdames J. H. Metzgar, Walter Vandermast, E. A. Noe, Harry Spencer, W. E. Winslow, Perry F. Schrock, E. B. Sprague and L. M. Forey. In addition to many loyal Ebells members who aided in every imaginable way not only by donating to the bazaar, but in actual work in the kitchen and card rooms. Public-spirited merchants also offered every aid in making the party one of the outstanding successes in Ebells society annals.

Current Events Folk Announce Dance Date

Halloween with all its bewitching cat and goblin added charm and mystery to the October meeting of Ebells' first section of Current Events, at which Mrs. Harry Huffman and Miss Norma Win-good entertained with a 1 o'clock luncheon at the home of the latter. Both an appetizing menu and artistic decorations gave evidence of a fun-making season.

Following luncheon, Mrs. Arthur May, section leader, opened the business meeting. Miss Louise Tubbs as chairman of the program and study committee gave her report. It was afterwards voted that the section would continue with current events at roll call, imposing a small fine for failure to respond. In addition to this, the section has chosen some of the leading articles of the month, with varied interests, from which there will be a talk and discussion.

Final plans were made for the first dance of the year which will be held at the clubhouse Thursday night, November 12 at 9 o'clock. As it will be remembered, these dances are given primarily to aid in the furnishing of the new clubhouse, and section members are anxious that everyone may enjoy them.

Mrs. Cyrus Lurker asked for help to assist Mrs. Amelia Meagher in folding Red Cross Christmas seals at the courthouse. A great part of the proceeds will go to aid the health camp in Trabuco canyon.

To supply a need for better acquaintance and friendliness among old and new members, a courtesy committee was appointed with Mrs. C. V. Doty as chairman. Business finally dispensed with, the remainder of the afternoon was given over to a social hour.

Preceding the presentation of the missionary play "Larola" tomorrow night at the First Christian church service hour, by the Young Married People's class of the Sunday school, will be a musical program presented by Miss Lizzetta Phillips, Mrs. Jack Kahler (Glenda Mae Waggoner) and W. S. Briggs.

Featured in the cast of the play will be Cleo Witherow, Darrel Nelson, William H. Rash, Gladys Curry, Ruth O. Nicholson, Stella Rash, Morris Kersey and Sue Parsons. Mrs. F. T. Porter is directing the play which will be followed by musical numbers including a violin quartette by four young artists and a vocal solo by Mr. Marble, now director of the choir. A silver offering will be taken.

The Tustin Literature section of Ebells club will meet Tuesday, November 3, at 2:30 p. m. at the home of Mrs. E. A. Logan on D street at Laguna avenue.

Interesting Gayeties Are Scheduled for Early November

With so many extremely desirable places in which large parties may be staged, Santa Ana hostesses may consider themselves most fortunate, for the choice may lie between Santa Ana Country club, Newport Harbor Yacht club, St. Ann's Inn, Ebells clubhouse, the Mary Louise at Fullerton and a score of smaller places, each with an individual charm of its very own.

The social calendar is becoming full indeed for the average matron of the city, who finds every day's mail offering one of the fascinating little envelopes that promise a future happy affair. Just at present, Halloween offers the ration d'etre for entertaining. A little later it will all be Thanksgiving and intimate family gatherings.

One of the prominent younger matrons, Mrs. W. Lester Tubbs, will sponsor two successive functions next week at her charming East Fourth street home, having issued cards for a bridge luncheon Tuesday, November 3, to be followed by a bridge tea on the afternoon of the fifth.

Among interesting out-of-the-city events which many Santa Ana women anticipate is the bridge luncheon at which Mrs. William Harold Wickett of Fullerton will present Mrs. Paul Williams to her friends. Mrs. Wickett is entertaining at the Mary Louise in Fullerton on Friday, November 6.

The Mary Louise will also be the scene of a happy little dinner dance on the following night, Saturday, November 7, when Mr. and Mrs. Samuel P. Nau and Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Boyer will entertain the two dance clubs to which they belong.

Choosing a bridge tea in which to express their hospitality, Mrs. Fred Zalsor, Mrs. George Guenther and Mrs. Frances Weinrich have issued invitations for the afternoon of November 12. They will entertain at Ebells clubhouse which will also be the scene of a musicale tea for which Mrs. Theo A. Winkler has issued invitations for the afternoon of November 19 at 2:30 o'clock. Many delightful features will be on the program of the latter event and will offer a radical change from the prevailing entertainment of bridge.

On November 10, society will motor to the Santa Ana Country club where Mrs. Joseph Metzgar, Mrs. W. B. Williams and Mrs. Alex Brownridge will present a luncheon and an afternoon of bridge. A similar courtesy will be extended on Wednesday, November 18, at Ebells clubhouse where another hostess trio comprised of Mrs. W. E. Lutz, Mrs. M. A. Yarnell and Mrs. O. K. Forgy will entertain.

Indicating her intention to add to the Thanksgiving gayeties, Mrs. John E. Gowen has issued invitations for the afternoon of Saturday the twenty-first when she will present a bridge luncheon at her home, 923 Spurgeon street. These are a few of the bigger autumnal festivities. Without doubt there will be more announced from time to time, and with the club entertainments which include the big Current Events section dance at Ebells clubhouse, Thursday night, November 12; the Daughters of the American Revolution luncheon at Ebells club on Saturday, November 7; the Shrine Charity ball at St. Ann's Inn on Friday night, November 20, periodical dances and card parties at the country club, similar events at Newport Harbor Yacht club and the Southern Seas club in Balboa, and finally, the many happy family gatherings planned for the great national holiday of Thanksgiving, the pre-Christmas season promises to be the gayest and most brilliant in many years.

CHURCH SOCIETIES

Mrs. J. S. House of Lyon street, Tustin opened her pretty country home to the ladies of the Spurgeon Memorial Missionary society for their regular monthly tea. The home was beautifully decorated with autumn flowers. Devotionals were led by Mrs. T. J. Houghton. The program offered a piano solo by Frances Walton, a reading by little Marion Brannon, vocal solos by Mrs. Lula Johnson and Mrs. Arthur May. Refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by a committee of members from the society.

Youthful Violinist Becomes Bride of Football Star

Ending a courtship of several years' standing was the marriage of John Spangler, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Spangler, 623 North Ross street, and Miss Elizabeth Wright, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Paul E. Wright of Ontario.

The wedding took place on Saturday, October 10, at El Centro and was a complete surprise to the parents and friends of the young people. It had been planned that there should be a church wedding in June but not caring to have the big formal affair the young couple decided suddenly to accompany two of their friends who were going to El Centro to be married and thus to make the affair a double wedding.

Miss Wright is well known in Santa Ana as her father, the Rev. Paul E. Wright was pastor of the First Christian church here for several years where he made hosts of friends. She is a very talented violinist and is a pupil of Ollimae Enlow Matthews. She has been attending Christian college and expects to continue her course there. John Spangler, former track and football star, also has a wide circle of friends in Santa Ana. He is a graduate of Occidental college where he just recently received his M. A. degree. He was football captain, end for three years on the varsity, track captain one year and a three-letter man in that sport. He also made letters in baseball. At present he is assistant coach at Franklin High school, Los Angeles. For the present Mr. and Mrs. Spangler will make their home in Los Angeles.

INTERESTING PROGRAM PLANNED FOR INTRODUCTION OF NEW COMPANY HERE

Nu-Air service station, which is to be opened at 1803 West Fifth street, Santa Ana, tomorrow night.

Appearance of Movie Stars Will Be Feature of Big Celebration

What bids fair to be one of the largest business celebrations that ever has taken place in Southern California will attend the opening of the station of the Nu-Air Rubber Company of America, announced for Saturday, October 31, at 1803 West Fifth street, Santa Ana.

The festivities will begin at 6 p. m., with a flag raising ceremony, after which the station will be formally christened. Speeches, singing and dancing will follow.

Plenty of music is promised, but the special music will be cared for by the Nu-Air Rubber company band, under the leadership of D. R. Crane, president of the Riverside County Chamber of Commerce. The band is composed of members of the organization from Riverside and Orange counties.

The program will include the taking of motion pictures, the personal appearance of movie stars and street dancing, with its confetti, serpentine, horns, noise makers and balloons for the children.

Will Close Streets.
The streets will be closed to traffic to avoid interference with the merry-makers. Special Halloween decorations will be employed to make the occasion one of gaiety long to be remembered.

During the evening the grounds and station will be illuminated by special motion picture studio lights, which are to be brought here from Hollywood for that purpose.

A beautiful, real wedding ceremony of two members of the Nu-Air Boosters club is promised as part of the program.

The moving pictures taken are to be used in the News Reel Weekly and are to be shown in a Santa Ana theater about a week after the celebration. After the pictures have been shown in Santa Ana they are slated to be shown throughout the United States.

The Nu-Air Rubber Company of America is a sales organization that will soon spread over the entire country and hopes to number more than 150,000 men and women as members of the Nu-Air Booster club, as the sales organization is called.

Weekly meetings of the Riverside and Orange county divisions of the Booster club are held in the American Legion hall in Santa Ana.

The intention of the company is to distribute merchandise direct from the factory to the consumer, eliminating every profit except that of the salesman, who sell direct to the consumer.

It is intended that many articles will be sold by this organization under this plan. The first article to be sold is the Nu-Air tire—an automobile tire that is pneumatic in its nature yet claimed to be puncture-proof. The tire has the same resiliency and riding qualities as the inflated tire.

The tires are now being made in the factory recently leased by the company, which is fully equipped for necessary present consumption.

Thirty new tire molds recently were ordered and these are being added to the factory equipment. When these molds are installed the factory will have a capacity of 600 tires a day.

The tires will be installed only at the regular Nu-Air stations, of which the new one in Santa Ana is the second to be opened in the United States in the last month.

The tire patents and the selling idea are credited to Fred C. Roegge, head of the company, whose vigorous campaign has been responsible for the phenomenal success of the organization.

Roegge has had many past successes to his credit and is well known among the larger sales executives of the country.

To Roegge is credited the successful bringing of the first and last trainload of persons across the continent to California in 1915 to attend the expositions, which were held that year in San Diego and San Francisco. At that time he saw the possibilities and future of California and decided to live here.

'THUNDERING HERD'
RUINS IDAHO, 51-7

MOSCOW, Idaho, Oct. 31.—Idaho went down to bitter defeat at the hands of the University of Southern California here yesterday, removing her from the top of the conference standing where she was tied with Stanford for first place with two conference wins. The score was 51 to 7.

The "Thundering Herd" from Southern California plowed through the Vandals at will, perfect interference bringing easy victory. The Trojans outplayed the Vandals in every department of the game.

VALUE OF OLD FRESHMEN ARE TIRES UP WITH SIZED UP FOR RUBBER MARKET MIXING ABILITY

According to Roy J. Lyon, local distributor for the products of the General Tire and Rubber company, from now on, and for a long time to come, the jung man and the rubber reclaimer are going to make it tough for the youngsters who have been accustomed to cushioning their swings with old tire casings "under the old apple tree."

"Just a few years ago, when crude rubber was cheaper and tire prices corresponded, the price of scrap rubber went to almost nothing throughout the country and no effort was made to gather it," Lyon said. "The average junk man wouldn't even carry old casings away as a courtesy, and worn out tires were put to some quaint uses. Veterans' carcases made children's swings easier to sit in and cling to; some car owners set up superannuated tires at the back end of the garage to serve as bumpers and shock absorbers on the drive in—especially late at night."

"In 1923, the best price quoted for scrap for reclaiming was as low as $15 a ton, less than a cent a pound. This year, prices have gone as high as three cents a pound, or $60 a ton. So again the song of the itinerant horse-and-wagon merchant is complete, and his chant includes 'old rubber' as well as 'paper, rags and old iron.' All this is due to the soaring of crude rubber prices. All signs indicate that rubber will be much lower for a long time, so the use of reclaimed rubber is being increased by the manufacturer of many rubber articles. Very little reclaimed rubber can be used in high grade tires, however, and none in good inner tubes.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Freshmen entering George Washington university here have been cataloged officially as "good mixers," by means of a social intelligence test, a novel examination conducted by Dr. Fred A. Moss, associate professor of psychology.

Students were required to name emotions portrayed by moving picture actors, identify by photographs faces they had seen a few minutes previous and describe personalities in the unique test which seeks to establish a student's individuality. Ability to comprehend social situations was tested in a series of questions which required the students to pick men for certain positions. One of these questions was:

"A Harvard graduate is holding a position as caretaker of a small playground. Check the one of the following answers which you would expect most accurately to correspond with the character of the man. He is—a drunkard; a drug addict; unusually fond of children; unable to adjust himself to a position of responsibility; a marionette."

Students were shown portraits of a score of persons with their names; a few minutes later the portraits were shown again without the names and the students were required to identify the faces.

Close-ups of noted moving picture actors were projected and the students asked to identify the emotions they portrayed.

Officials of the university claim that the test will be of untold benefit to class instructors. Dr. Moss believes that the results of the test with proper application to the individual needs of the student, will prove that such a test should be used in large industries.

"KERNELS" BY THE COLONEL

Didja ever hear that Orange county was the richest agricultural county in the word for its size, didja?

Didja see the figures to prove it, didja?

Well, it's so, but after looking around a bit it would be hard to swallow in spite of the figures. Didja ever notice the paintless roof on the courthouse of the world's richest county?

Didja ever stop to wonder where a paint brush would do the most good in Santa Ana? If you did, you chose either the courthouse or the old opera house.

But that is not all. Didja notice all the wonderful parks in the county seat of the richest county in the world? Both of them? Neither would be called a park if the speaker was actually pinned down on it.

And the unusual amount of lights around the county's courthouse? Since the old jail was torn down the inky spot there looks like a chasm.

In this, the richest county of all, according to dope, the largest park in the county seat is of two acres and the smallest, (or rather the other one), is about the size of three tennis courts, if you exaggerate a little bit.

WHAT AMERICA NEEDS
MOST
Seedless avocados.

A New York barber had a wonderful idea and he is putting it into practice. He is hiring nothing but deaf mutes to man his chairs.

That is not a bad idea, but he has gone further than that; he is engaging aesthetic dancers as manicure girls who dance for the customers while the barber does his stuff. Reminds some of other days when you could go in, order a glass, and eat $1 worth of food all for a nickel.

"Dear Colonel: I live in Riverside. Having heard that feathered stock, especially the crowing kind, are being deported from Santa Ana, beg to inform you that one dilapidated specimen has reached Riverside and is now seeking protection from former Santa Ana residents, but owing to our living in a restricted district, we may be obliged to apply to the police for protection.—F. S. C."

And then we noticed in the Register the other day that "the rabbit growers of Santa Ana and vicinity have a meeting in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A. this evening to arrange for their society's organization."

Now that we have rabbit farms, chicken ranches and stock farms inside the city limits, somebody should start a skunk garden to make everything complete.

CAN YOU IMAGINE
The gas company allowing a Santa Ana street to be paved without tearing it up within three weeks?

Some of these "digging up" outfits, which includes the city water department, remind us of a boy with a new watch. He just must go into the works to see what it's made of.

Today's booby prize should go to the ardent football fan who read in the Register the other day where the Santa Ana team was penalized 885 yards in one game, called up and said: "I'll bet that was an error; very few teams are penalized that much."

Yes, brother, very few, indeed.

Regarding the opening of a new company here, publicity sent into the Register read, in part: "The festivities will begin at 8 o'clock in the evening with a flag raising ceremony."

We would also suggest that a bugler be present and blow "taps" just as the doors are thrown open to the public.

NUT-Y-GRAMS
Honest to goodness, I'm going to take that sign down right away.

TIME PAYMENTS ON CHEVROLET EASIER

The new time payment purchase plan of the General Motors Acceptance corporation, when applied to the purchase of Chevrolet automobiles, makes the time payment price of the car from $15 to $35 lower, according to B. J. McMullen, local Chevrolet dealer.

"The plan enables the purchaser to buy his car out of income without the imposition of heavy premiums," the dealer said. "A Chevrolet now may be bought on one-third down payment and operated during the year in which the payments are being completed at an additional cost of only 8 cents a day for financing the time payments.

"This 8 cents, besides meeting all interest and carrying charges, gives the purchaser complete fire and theft insurance coverage for the year."

YOST THEATER.

Earl Hudson stopped at nothing to get realism and genuine thrills into his picture, "The Knockout," starring Milton Sills, which closes at the Yost theater tonight.

In order to obtain the correct atmosphere for the outdoor scenes of this picture of the Canadian woods he sent his company into the wilds of Northern Ontario and Quebec. The location of the picture was in the vicinity of the Ottawa river, the center of the largest lumbering activities in the Eastern section of the country.

That the scenes might be true to life and depict the perilous task of the river drivers who bring millions of logs each year from the forests to the sawmills, Hudson, through the co-operation of the Canadian government, engaged the whole crew of one of the largest woods operators as actors in the picture.

"The Knockout" is a film filled with stirring action of the sort for which Sills has become famous. He is a prize fighter who goes to the logging camps of the north woods when he finds his right arm has gone back on him. There he meets opposition and action that makes his ring efforts seem soft.

Douglas MacLean and Edith Roberts in a scene from "Seven Keys to Baldpate," comedy showing at the West End theater.

WEST END THEATER.

What is a comedy "gag"? According to Douglas MacLean, a comedy gag is an individual method by which a laugh is secured. He refuses to accept the general definition which classifies a comedy gag as a dramatic situation burlesqued or satirized.

"Defining a comedy 'gag' as a dramatic situation either burlesqued or satirized is only partly correct," MacLean claims. "It is true insofar as it goes, but it is not comprehensive enough. I can point to numberless gags that are so remote from a dramatic situation that the general definition is completely useless."

"If the general definition is accepted, it should follow that burlesquing or satirizing any dramatic situation should result in a laugh," MacLean goes on to say. "But this is never true. What one man can make riotously funny won't get a ripple of laughter when played by another comedian."

"That is why I maintain that a comedy 'gag' resolves itself into a matter of method rather than mechanical means. It is exactly as difficult to define as personality or charm."

"In 'Seven Keys to Baldpate,' the George M. Cohan comedy which we translated to the screen, there are many, many comedy gags. But they are gags of method rather than of mechanics."

Working with his own definition of the word, MacLean and his staff develop gags which are frequently only useful to the MacLean comedies just as Chaplin, Lloyd and Griffith each follow their individual laugh-getting methods. But MacLean, preferring method to mechanics, strives for his laughs by the way he plays a "gag" rather than by the "gag" itself.

It was the opportunity for this type of "gaging" in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," in which MacLean comes to the West End theater tonight, that prompted him to secure the screen rights to the record-breaking Cohan success. And MacLean believes that Cohan holds to the same definition inasmuch as the original stage play was designed to get its comedy effects by method rather than by any comedy mechanics.

"The Everlasting Whisper" the screen adaptation of Jackson Gregory's famous novel, in which Tom Mix is starred is one of the finest stories in which this noted western star has ever appeared. The picture is based on the lure of the rugged Northwest, involving action and thrills that are without compare.

TEMPLE THEATRE

SANTA ANA

Raymond Bloomer and Brenda Bond in a scene from "The Fool," the picture opening tomorrow at the West Coast-Walker.

YOST THEATER

Verna Haworth and company will offer a terpsichorean presentation at the Yost theater tomorrow that is handsomely mounted, and running over with exceptional talent. Not only does this apply to Miss Haworth but the other members of her little company as well. The act has appeared in all the larger circuits and cities of the country and everywhere has been acclaimed as one of the outstanding offerings of this sort, being pleasing to both the eye and ear, with well put over songs, musical numbers, character description and interpretive dance routines.

Eadie and Ramsden appearing in an act titled "Something and Nothing" actually do a number of entertaining stunts but perform so easily that it seems like nothing. The contortionist twists his body into incredible positions and as quickly slips back into normal shade.

One of vaudeville's best male quartettes, known as "The Four of Us" will be heard as a part of the new bill. These sterling singers will include sufficient comedy to add a dash of real enjoyment to their songs. Their voices harmonize well and possess pleasant tonal qualities.

Donahue and La Salle have a novel offering billed as "Unique Novelty." The program consists of bits of many of the best forms of entertainment. The man is exceptionally versatile and after a cornet solo he offers a routine of novelty acrobatic tricks.

George Latour, "manipulating raconteur," offers a most refreshing original and novel offering that cannot fail to meet the hearty appreciation of an audience. Latour has been abroad for the past nine years and comes to us with a fund of stories new and of the most laugh provoking nature.

On the screen will be shown "Simon, the Jester," featuring Lillian Rich and Eugene O'Brien.

WEST COAST-WALKER

"The Fool," William Fox's much heralded picturization of the Channing Pollock stage success, which opens tomorrow at the West Coast-Walker theater for a three day run, may be pronounced as a sincere attempt to bring clean pictures before the public. It is a big, straightaway dramatic story of a self effacing young man.

There isn't a doubt that the picture with its moralistic theme, will exert a tremendous appeal here as it has in other parts of the country where it has been run. Edmund Lowe, the handsome young star, who plays the role of the minister hero, is going to make thousands of new friends and admirers by superb and feeling performance of the part. Lowe is pretty near the whole picture although Anna Dale, as the little cripple; Mary Thurman and Paul Danzer share much of the acting honors.

On the stage in conjunction with "The Fool," Fanchon and Marco present their most pretentious tableau "The Underses Ballet" with a magnificent company including Fay Adler and Ted Bradford; Savara and Brigante, two famous dance teams of Adagio Dancers, formerly featured in The Marble and Orchid Act. Evert Woudsma, the famous Holland-Dutch tenor; Anita, the wire mid-air performer, and a large chorus of Sunkist beauties.

The act opens in a fisherman's cottage and a scene of the undersea regions. Then chiffon drapes reveal the undersea with girls, sirens and mermaids. The third act is a parade of costumed girls representing octopus, devil fish, etc. At the finale a huge shell opens and "Anita" glides in mid air on a rope by her teeth, twirling as the curtain drops. It is without doubt the most colorful and brilliant set ever on the stage. A comedy and musical selection by Al Steiner and his orchestra complete the bill.

TEMPLE THEATER

Tonight is your last chance to see "Her Temporary Husband" at the Temple theater as presented by the Connell Comedians. This fast moving comedy has delighted many persons from all parts of Orange county.

Sunday matinee at 2 o'clock will see the opening of next week's attraction. It is "The Monster," a melodramatic production that started New York City for two solid seasons and conceded by critics from all over the United States to be the year's greatest mystery show. As one critic said it has all the so-called mystery plays looking like a bed time radio story. Thrills greet you from all sides as the strangest story ever written unfolds before you. Mysterious lights go on and off, weird screams from the storm-swept night thrill you and when you are at the height of suspense you are suddenly plunged into the cleverest comedy of the spoken drama.

This play will go far to establish the entire company of the Temple theater as one of the very highest class. Such late releases that receive such good production are bound to create capacity business.

GLENDALE MAN TALKS BEFORE REALTY BOARD

The real estate agency business of California within five years will be entirely in the hands of realtors, in the opinion of Peter Hanson, real estate broker, of Glendale, as expressed in an address delivered yesterday at the meeting of the Santa Ana Board of Realtors.

Hanson was advanced by friends as a candidate for election as president of the California Real Estate association at the convention in Fresno, but his name was withdrawn when Harry Culver, of Los Angeles, consented to permit his name to go before the board of directors for consideration. Culver was elected to the position.

Hanson's declaration was based on real estate boards and state and national associations of real estate men continuing their influence in impressing on members that real estate brokers have an obligation to clients more than the mere collecting of a commission for services rendered.

Greater Service In Future

Stressing the changed attitude of brokers with regard to their responsibility to clients, as brought about through ethical teachings by the boards and associations, Hanson said that classes in real estate, being organized everywhere, would be effective in placing dealers in position to render a greater service than they have in the past.

Pointing to the fact that dealers, by their associations, have elevated the selling of real estate to a profession, the speaker said that brokers today were given respectful hearings by city council, by state legislatures, and by the national congress.

Crediting brokers with being the creators of wealth, through subdivision activities and through the location of families in homes, the speaker stressed the obligation of the realtor in seeing that a client is placed in a home with pleasant environment.

"If you sell a man a lot in a subdivision a mile remote from the business section, you owe that man something—it should be your endeavor to see that more homes go up near him," Hanson said. "Your obligation does not cease when you receive your commission for the sale."

Stresses Home Ownership

"No man can do anything that is greater than making the head of a household a home owner," he continued. "Home ownership binds the family together in a common struggle to pay for a home, and it protects against want in old age."

"Ownership of a home anchors a man to his job and creates in him a new interest in the laws of the city, the county, the state and the nation. It is the thing that interests him in all the activities having to do with the building of his home city. It gives the wife and mother a sense of security and she is not living in fear of receiving notice to vacate. It gives children a feeling of security as regard to the school they are attending and they know they will not be changed to another school. It gives pride to the wife and she knows the family will benefit by whatever she does to beautify the home."

Gil Cowan, assistant editor and manager of California Real Estate association, was a visitor at the meeting.

Our Neighbors

PASADENA—The city has more than 200 street projects underway, according to Warren C. Earle, city engineer-street superintendent, who has just compiled a report showing the status of the various undertakings. In all there are 226 projects. Of the proceedings underway, 31 are for ornamental lighting systems; 36 are for street widening, opening and extensions; 69 are paving jobs, and 16 are sewer projects. At the present time there is public street work underway or contemplated which will amount to many hundreds of thousands of dollars. Hardly a week passes that the board of city directors is not requested to start some new work.

ONTARIO—Although the organization shipped approximately the same number of oranges during the season just closed that were sent forward the preceding year, grower members of the Alta Loma Heights Citrus association received more than twice as much for their fruit this year as last, it was revealed at the annual meeting of members held at the packinghouse in Amethyst avenue. For 120 carloads or 48,000 boxes of oranges shipped, the growers received a net return of $154,865.25, according to the report of Manager R. H. Henderson. In addition, the association shipped 70 carloads or 28,000 boxes of lemons, which brought the growers a net return of $85,000, making a total net return for the season of $239,865.25.

WHITTIER—Four of the service clubs, the Forum club of the chamber of commerce, the Y.M.C.A., high school, state school and the populace in general are all uniting in a big community Halloween party to be given on the Whittier college athletic field, Saturday evening. This is to be the second annual community Halloween party. The mammoth parade of gnomes, goblins, witches and whatisits, will assemble in the business district and march to the college campus. Five divisions will be in the parade, and the masqueraders will be from the little children up to the grownups and older people. Two prizes will be awarded each division.

ARCADIA—Extension of Colorado street eastward across the Baldwin property, to provide direct boulevard connection between Pasadena, Arcadia and Monrovia, has been brought into the realm of possibility through negotiations recently started, according to information gathered here and in Monrovia. These negotiations have now reached the point, it is stated, where Mrs. Anita Baldwin will acquiesce in the opening of Colorado street under certain conditions.

ALHAMBRA—The city officials have decided to enforce the ancient curfew ordinance which requires all persons under 17 years of age to be off the public highways after the hour of 9 p. m. As the curfew is not of much use without a bell to herald the deadline, the city is up against the problem of how the curfew shall ring.

PASADENA—A warehouse 60 by 40 feet, to serve all of the national forests in Southern California, will be built near the ranger's station in the Arroyo Seco canyon, according to plans completed by the United States forest service. The purpose of the building is to store fire fighting equipment and have it available to the several forests during times of serious fires.

LONG BEACH—Rock work on the east bank of the flood control channel south toward the Long Beach boulevard is being rushed ahead to beat the winter rains. Flood Control Engineer James W. Reagan of Long Beach is exerting every effort to have the revetment reach the boulevard by December 1. If he can accomplish this, he feels the protective work of the whole year will have succeeded.

SOUTH PASADENA—Net income of the water department of South Pasadena for the fiscal year now ended was $18,135, according to a statement submitted to the city trustees by Robert Lawson, city auditor. In the figures compiled, $9301.41 was allowed for depreciation of the physical assets of the system. These figures are of interest in view of the bond election, called for November 14, to vote on the question of raising a total of $450,000 to rehabilitate the city's water system and to purchase that portion of the water system of the city of Pasadena now serving South Pasadena. This purchase, it is estimated, will add one-third more to the total of water users supplied by the local municipal department.

CLAREMONT—Claremont has started a program of street improvement that will end only when most of the main thoroughfares are paved and through arteries hooked up by smooth streets. All legal technicalities in connection with the paving program are completed and work will start soon on Cucamonga avenue. Cucamonga avenue is a westerly continuation of West Eighth street in the Ontario-Upland district. It will form a link in the proposed Arrow highway.

RIVERSIDE—Warren Schoonover, citrus specialist of the University of California agricultural extension service, will conduct a demonstration in the use of orchard heating devices at the experiment station November 6. Mr. Schoonover recently completed a survey of different methods of orchard heating in all parts of the state, and will give Riverside county growers the benefit of the information he has gained. Robert McBride, field superintendent of the experiment station, will assist the specialist in his demonstration.

Credit is a Commodity--- Too!

There is a vast difference between using—and abusing—credit. Credit is a convenience. Credit is an element which even the bank uses to advantage. Credit is a service factor in our national life.

The man with unlimited credit has more than money—because credit is based on character. So the people who extend you credit give tangible evidence of their confidence in your character. Keep your credit good by meeting your obligations promptly. It's an asset for you—to do so.

PROPOSED ROAD PAVING WOULD IMPROVE ROUTE TO SHORE LINE

Projected Improvement of Highway in San Bernardino County Being Urged

IS CONSIDERED OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Property Owners Taking Steps for Formation Soon
Of Assessment District

Beach points in Orange county will be more available to San Bernardino points if success meets the projected paving. In San Bernardino county, of seven miles of highway through the hills of Carbon canyon from a point south of Chino to the Orange county line. Declared to be a cut-off from San Bernardino county points to the Orange county shore line, the highway is considered of such importance that property owners on the road are taking steps for the formation of an assessment district to pay for the improvement, according to a statement by M. P. Cheney, supervisor, representing San Bernardino county in the preliminary plans.

Calling attention to the fact that the pavement would extend to the Orange county line at a point one mile north of Olinde, Cheney said the route specified in the original petition signed by property owners had been shortened a mile and a tenth, and that the signers are now giving their consent to the change.

All of the west end of San Bernardino county is expected to urge approval of the project by the supervisors, for it would route much traffic by way of Upland, Ontario and Chino, and not only would divert traffic from the Santa Ana canyon road but would shorten by several miles the distance to Orange county beaches from virtually every community in San Bernardino county.

New Paving Job To Beach Urged

According to a report received from the touring department of the National Automobile club, petitions are practically ready for presentation to the supervisors for the paving of the Orange-Rosemead boulevard from the Orange county line to Manhattan Beach. The roadway will be 32 feet wide, of seven-inch to nine-inch cement concrete.

Vehicle Office Plans Better Service

Preparations for giving more efficient service in renewal of registration licenses for 1926 was indicated by announcement this week by Will H. Marsh, chief of the motor vehicle department, that space and facilities of the state division offices in Los Angeles and San Diego will be doubled. Pointing out that increased business made imperative the larger quarters and facilities, Marsh said new equipment, costing $25,000, would be added to the two branch offices.

DUCK HUNTING DECLARED GOOD ON LAKE MONO

Stormy conditions make good duck hunting and there are many wild ducks on Lake Mono at the present time, according to a recent report received from the touring department of the National Automobile club.

It is advisable for duck hunters to have a good dog along, as boats are not practical and can-hunting is at its best. Lake Mono has all varieties of ducks, from Canvas Backs to Ruddy's, but the Spono Bill is considered the best eating duck on the lake. They are fat and are a clean, good tasting duck.

Mallards can be found around the mouth of Rush creek and at Grant lake and great numbers of them are reported on the new reservoir at Bridgeport.

Trout season is better at this time of the year than in the spring. The water is low and cold, the trout rise to a fly and are hungry and gamey. There is nothing in the climate or road conditions to interfere with the hunter or fisherman in this district at the present time, nor will there be until about the middle or latter part of November. Snows which block the roads do not come until then and for the last three years cars have passed through the year round.

Sid's Garage Is Rushed by Orders

Specializing in repairing Hudson, East and Marmon cars, Sid Holland said today that his shop, at 112 South Flower street, is enjoying a rush of business. Holland has named his recently-opened shop "Sid's garage."

GAS STATION OWNERS HOLD COUNTY MEET

Uniform Closing Hour Suggested As Method of Cutting Overhead Costs

Formation of a permanent organization, the aim of which will be to promote co-operation between the dealer and the motoring public, was the incentive of a meeting of more than 50 independent service station owners from all parts of Orange county in the Moose hall in Santa Ana.

A uniform closing hour, regulation of prices, more efficient service to the public and a general improvement of the service station business were outlined as some of the proposed achievements of the organization, which will be perfected within the near future.

H. E. LeClair, of Anaheim, was chosen temporary chairman at the meeting last night.

In addressing the meeting, LeClair urged that the members band together and agree to close their places of business at 7 o'clock in the evening. The hour of opening service stations will be left up to the owners.

"We want to educate the motoring public to buy their gasoline and oil before 7 o'clock in the evening," said LeClair. "It stands to reason that no man can work 14 to 18 hours daily and give the best service to the public.

"If we can get together on a closing hour we also will be able to cut down our overhead. We need more co-operation between the dealer and the customer. By organizing we will be able to eradicate the cut-throat methods that now are being employed by many of us. We can regulate prices and thus aid ourselves as well as our customers."

Long State Court Decision on File

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—An opinion of 20,000 words, the longest in the history of the state supreme court, was on file here today, setting the oldest undecided case on the appeal docket.

The court reversed the $96,481 judgment given in the San Joaquin county superior court against Harry E. Parker, H. B. M. Miller, Leo J. Grossman and the Chicago Bonding company, as successors of John Landers, for the loss of 36,408 sacks of potatoes when the Sacramento river overflowed Millard Island, in 1918.

Damages were claimed by plaintiffs, potato growers, who leased the island, because of alleged failure of the defendant lessors to keep dykes in proper repair.

CADILLAC SUBURBAN AND OAKLAND ROADSTER USED ON INSPECTION TOUR OF BEAN AND WALNUT CROPS

Two of the several crops that contribute to the prosperity of Orange county. Upper—George Ball, sales manager for the Cadillac Garage company, observing operation of the Meyers and McClintock bean thresher working this week on the bean crop produced by Sam Mander-shield on his ranch in the Greenville district. This crop returns annually $2,500,000 to growers in Orange county. The car in the foreground is the handsome new Cadillac Suburban, which Ball used in driving to the bean field.

This crop returns $3,000,000 annually to county growers. Ball is seen here in the new Oakland six cylinder roadster, which is selling here at $1180.

HUP AGENCY MOVES TO NEW QUARTERS

The Moulton company, distributor for the Hupmobile, today was completing the job of moving its agency from 508 North Broadway to 102 North Sycamore street. The company has been occupying the Broadway premises jointly with the Frahm Oldsmobile company.

According to J. J. Robertson, sales manager, the company will be open tomorrow for a special showing of the new Hup six in the display room of the new quarters.

The location is at the northwest corner of First and Sycamore, and the building has been remodelled to suit the needs of the agency.

Tide Water Oil Divisions Are In Selling Rivalry

Divided into three divisions, with headquarters points in Los Angeles, San Francisco and Portland, sales forces of the Tide Water Oil sales corporation in each division today were in friendly competition in a district sales contest for the honor of being designated western department champions at the annual convention, to be held in San Francisco, early in January, according to announcement here today by a representative of the corporation.

District meetings have just been concluded at headquarters points, at which W. C. Pettigall, western sales manager, and Harold R. Deal, western advertising manager, were principal speakers, the former discussing current sales problems and presenting details of the sales contest.

F. M. Rowles, western manager, participated also in the program at Portland, being on a visit to the Pacific northwest section prior to the annual meeting of Tide Water executives.

Of particular interest was Rowles' brief outline of business results on the coast and the outlook for the largest volume of business ever done by Veedol products in this area.

Russian Comedy Is Given In Pasadena

PASADENA, Oct. 31.—Pasadena was momentarily the dramatic center of the country Thursday when the Community Players here gave the English-speaking premiere of the latest dramatic sensation of Europe, "The Main Thing," a Russian comedy, by Nicholas Yevrey-nov, famous Slav dramatist. London and the Theater guild, of New York, are both preparing productions of this comedy, which is to run here until November 7, at the new $400,000 community playhouse. Pasadena gave the first presentation last night in the English language.

STAR PRICE SLASH IS ANNOUNCED HERE

A reduction of $70 on the Star sport sedan and sport coupe was announced here today by B. E. Morthland, sales manager for the Santa Ana Star Motor Sales company, local Star dealer.

"These two models, and particularly the sport coupe, have enjoyed a wide degree of popularity," Morthland said. "With the price revisions these cars become known as standard instead of sport jobs, and are expected to multiply in numbers by more thousands."

"As other models of the Star car line, the sedan and coupe are equipped with four-wheel brakes and balloon tires as standard equipment. No change has been made in the chassis and body construction."

MEN'S CHORUS IS ORGANIZED AT Y.

With an initial attendance of 14 men, the men's chorus made a successful start at the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening. The men devoted an hour in getting their voices adjusted, and discovered, with much satisfaction, that they were able to produce a considerable amount of harmony.

For the present, Secretary Ralph Smalley will act as director of the chorus. A. L. Ferguson is at the piano. The men will meet again next Thursday evening, at 7 o'clock, at which time additional singers are expected to join. Membership in the organization is not confined to members of the Y. M. C. A. Any man who can sing, and who enjoys working on good music, is invited to be present Thursday evening for a tryout.

After the men become able to make presentable music, they may be heard in public, Smalley says, but they will not appear before an audience until they have had the opportunity to perfect themselves in some good numbers.

Sales Manager Declares New Models Are Acme of Perfection

Checking up on crop production in Orange county this week, George Ball, sales manager for the Cadillac Garage company, found two crops under harvest that furnish part of the backbone of the prosperity of the county and the source of capital for the purchase of many automobiles.

Admitting that bean and walnut cultivation are more or less new to him, Ball said that he did not fully appreciate the value in dollars and cents to Orange county of the walnut and bean crops.

Pointing out that bean growers received annually approximately $2,500,000 for their production, and that walnut growers received around $3,000,000 annually, Ball said these were but two of the crops grown commercially in the county. He cited that citrus returns of approximately $15,000,000 a year as another income that helps to swell the total value of soil productions to around $100,000,000 a year.

Ball made his investigation of the bean crop in a new Cadillac custom seven-passenger suburban, which he declares to be the acme of perfection.

"With every detail of design, finish and appointment handled with fine regard for outward beauty and interior charm this dominant Cadillac model affords full passenger capacity with the ultimate degree of enclosed car refinement. Cadillac seats, full width of the car enables this model, if required, to accommodate eight passengers in complete comfort."

Using a model of the New Oakland six cylinder roadster for his tour of inspection of walnut groves and packing houses, Ball was mighty proud to pose the "spiffy" two passenger car for a picture alongside a string of automobiles and trucks loaded with walnut and waiting in line in front of the packing house of the Santa Ana Walnut Growers' association.

"Walnut growers are going to be interested in the new roadster, for it is a classy car, operates economically, offers every facility of cars of this type, and because we are going to sell it delivered here at the remarkably low price of $1180," Ball said, adding that the factory has increased its daily production to the point where deliveries may be insured within two weeks after an order is placed. Commenting on the full new Oakland line, the sales manager said the manufacturing company now plans a production of 8000 cars a month.

Dope Is Smuggled Into County Jail

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 31.—Ten grains of morphine, smuggled into the Sacramento county jail, in a tube of tooth paste, resulted in the arrest here today of Mrs. Betty Gutke, 22. The narcotic was discovered by one of the jailers after Mrs. Gutke had sent a basket of food, in which she included the toothpaste, to her husband, Earl Gutke, recently convicted on a charge of robbery.

HOPES COUNCIL WILL NOT HEED PROPOSAL

State Motor Officer Says
Indifference of Public
Encourages Recklessness

By HORACE FINE
Automobile Editor of Register

Two types of reaction to my bold declarations last week that slow speed limit zones on through streets in Santa Ana should be moved in nearer the business district were contained in communications received by me this week.

"I am always glad to read the automobile letter in the Register on Saturday evening by our friend Mr. Horace Fine, but I must say that the one published in the issue of Saturday, October 24, was read with amazement and consternation," writes A. H. Morrow, 610 East Second street.

"Forty-five miles is not unsafe over many miles of our present highway system, while in other places, where 35 miles is the legal limit, 25 miles is the absolute limit of safety," states F. G. Yoder, member of the squad of state motorcycle officers.

And there you have the two types of reaction.

Readers will recall that in my article last week I maintained that driving at 40 miles an hour is as safe as at 35 miles an hour, under proper conditions. I also maintained that traffic through Santa Ana could be speeded up by moving the 20-miles zones nearer the business district. I cited North Main street as an example. The 20-mile zone there starts near the Main street bridge. I suggested that it be established at Washington avenue, or at the Washington school, with a safety measure of boulevard stops on intersecting streets.

Did Not Get Point

Morrow evidently did not get this point, for he writes: "In the letter he (Fine) advocates permitting machines to pass through town at the rate of 40 miles an hour, and suggests a way to care for the increased hazard. I hope the trustees will not heed the suggestion. If he could see, as I do, every day, innocent children and aged and infirm people waiting to get across the street, he never would express the thoughts he has. It is a common sight to see three or four children, holding one another's hands, waiting to cross a street, then in terror, making a run for it—and sometimes the smallest one will fall down. If this happens at 20 miles an hour, how about 40 miles?"

"In the south part of Santa Ana, most of the children living between Main and Halladay streets, from Chestnut south, have to attend the Spurgeon street school. This, of course, necessitates crossing Main. Some mothers tremble all day for their children's safety—others take them to school and care for them. If they did not, the slaughter at intersection crossings would be awful—and

for this greatest of Cadillacs
at new low prices
Exceeds all Previous Cadillac Popularity

The wonder is not that Cadillac is so fine and so good, but that such fineness and goodness are now procurable at the low prices of the new 90-degree Cadillac.

That nothing mechanical can be finer than Cadillac is not alone traditional among those who know fine cars. It is also clearly provable in terms of engineering and manufacturing limitations and material specifications.

Never more obviously than now has Cadillac proved its right to the title, Standard of the World.

But those who have enjoyed the Cadillac supremacy of the past have always expected to make a higher initial investment for the added years of comfort and security, the greater measure of care-free, golden miles.

Today, in the new 90-degree Cadillac, production skill has achieved the seemingly impossible. For Cadillac quality is greater than ever before, but you can now secure a beautiful five-passenger Cadillac Brougham at a list price of $2,995.

Throughout the United States, a tidal wave of Cadillac approval attests public recognition of the supremacy of Cadillac value.

If demonstration determines your choice, you must choose the new Cadillac.

EIGHT-IN-LINE GARDNER IS DISPLAYED IN S. A. BY FRAHM OLDSMOBILE COMPANY

Acceptance of Agency Confirms Rumors Heard On Auto Row

Announcement today that the Frahm Oldsmobile company had taken the county agency for the Gardner line, came as verification of the report on auto row for the last two weeks that the company was investigating different makes with a view to taking an additional agency.

Declaring that he felt that to get the best results in selling any make of car, he must be convinced of its worth, W. G. McConnell, manager of the Santa Ana agency of the Frahm concern, said that he sold himself on the Gardner after demonstrations had convinced him that the car had ability to meet the wide variety of conditions experienced by the average owner, and the certainty that the eight-in-line and the six would stand up under severe use.

The Gardner eight-in-line, known as the "super-8," was placed on the market early this spring by Russell E. Gardner, who has been manufacturing vehicles for 50 years, McConnell said. "It was followed shortly by the six cylinder model, which is practically of the same construction, except for having two less cylinders and selling for less money."

Gardners come fully equipped with every convenience for the motorist. Dome light, stop light, front and rear bumpers, transmission lock, spare tire, full balloons all around and automatic windshield wiper are a few of the accessories that are standard equipment.

A practical feature of the Gardner is the visible gasoline gauge, mounted under a plate glass on the dash. Hardly less important is the motor heat indicator on the dash, where it may be readily seen night or day, always giving the heat in degrees Fahrenheit of the hottest part of the motor. All other instruments are under the same oval plate glass, indirectly illuminated, making for visibility without glare.

There are several models to choose from in both the six and eight-in-line Gardner, according to McConnell. Among these are the anniversary sedan, four-door roadster, sport sedan, touring car, brougham and four-door cabriolet. Demonstrations will be made beginning Monday, and McConnell promises several surprises to the skeptics who want a real "he man" demonstration.

RESEARCH INTO TRAFFIC WILL BE UNDERTAKEN

As a result of action by the board of regents recently, the University of California has announced the creation of the Albert Russell Erskine bureau for street traffic research, to be located at the Southern Branch of the University of California.

The bureau was established as the result of a grant by the Studebaker Corporation of America, and in accordance with the terms of the offer, Dr. Miller McClintock has been appointed as director of the bureau. In offering the bureau, which will carry the name of Albert Russell Erskine, president of the Studebaker corporation, Paul G. Hoffman, vice president, said:

"The Studebaker Corporation of America, realizing the pressing character of the street traffic problem and the need for the collection of scientific information on the subject, desires to offer funds for the creation of a research bureau and graduate fellowships in the University of California."

The bureau will center its activities on a study of urban traffic difficulties and an investigation will be made of pedestrian control, conflict between street cars and automobiles, parking methods, speed, street designs, grade separation, signaling devices, uniform regulations and allied subjects. Reports of the bureau will be made available to all American cities.

The two fellowships created by the Studebaker corporation will each pay $1000 per year and will be granted to graduate engineering students in the University of California, at Berkeley.

Veiled Maharane Unseen In Britain

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Although she had been six months in London the veiled Maharane of Jodhpur is en route back to India today without a single white man having seen her face.

At the station where she took a special train for Dover her progress down the station platform was veiled from the curious by a corridor of screens erected by a small army of Indian servants that are a part of her retinue.

She is the wife of the immensely rich maharajah of Jodhpur, and is reputed to be extraordinarily beautiful. The visit of the maharajah of Jodhpur together with that of the still wealthier maharajah of Patiala has been one of the outstanding events of the London social season.

AUTO PUBLICITY IN ENGLAND IS JOLLY READING

Paul Clark, manager of Hancock Motors company, local Chrysler dealers, has received a clipping from the Yorkshire Evening News, of Leeds, England, which uses some terms that probably would occasion a laugh from the average American.

The Chrysler sedan is referred to as a high-powered "tourer or balloon car." The car is also called a "five-seater" model, and the description is more or less interesting.

"It is quick acceleration and good braking power, which makes it possible for the business man, driving his high-powered tourer or saloon car, to average big speeds and yet travel with the surety of perfect safety," reads the story.

"Of all the many features of the new Chrysler four car, nothing stands out so pre-eminent as its efficiency in the two matters I have just referred to. During a lengthy tour with a five-seater model yesterday, I had the pleasant experience of controlling a car, loaned to me by the Leeds dealer, which was capable of accelerating from 15 miles per hour to 40 miles per hour in 35 yards."

Bankrupt Seeks To Be Discharged

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 31.—E. G. Lewis, promoter of the $10,000,000 Atascadero estates, has filed petition in federal district court here to be discharged as a bankrupt. Lewis was formally adjudged bankrupt Jan. 5, 1925, on the strength of creditors' petition signed by more than 9000 names, and listing claims approximating $10,000,000.

Federal Judge James set Jan. 4, 1926, as the date of hearing on Lewis' petition.

CHANGES HEARD ON REACTIONS TO SPEED LAW

much worse under a speed limit of 40 miles.

"Our local merchants, especially those in the 'eating' line, have invested largely, hoping for returns from the passing motorists, but if we are to compel them to drive through our city at 40 miles an hour 'mine host' will have to put up his shutters—or start a watermelon stand down the road. Keep the pace at 15 and 20 miles and give us another Justice Cox."

Familiar with Scenes

Perhaps I am as familiar with the scenes on streets of Santa Ana every day as the average man. I am fully cognizant of the situations pointed out by my correspondent. I know how difficult it is at times for school children and elderly persons to cross one of the busy streets—and it is correction of this condition that prompted my suggestions. I think I made it clear by citing the North Main street condition, that I believe that school areas should be protected by slow speed. Possibly there is no school in the city on a busy street where it would not be possible for a child to gain a point opposite a school house before attempting to make a street crossing. A child may as well walk down one side of the street as the other—if there are cement sidewalks on both sides of the street, and I cannot recall any school house on a much-traveled street that is not sidewalked on both sides.

It is my contention that with higher speed on the outer portions of the main traveled streets in the city, crossings would be more accessible and safer for pedestrians. As I used North Main street as an example in attempting to put over my point, I will refer to it again. Machines slow down at the bridge—they are expected to and many drivers observe the speed limit. They frequently flow along the avenue in such congested streams as to make crossing on Main at many of the intersections a very serious problem.

If the higher speed were maintained down to Washington avenue, the machines would be more widely separated and crossings at intersecting streets would be more available. I did not advocate a 40-mile limit in the city, but on the open highways. Portions of what are now 20 mile zones could be made 30 mile zones with the greatest safety, in my opinion.

Two Relief Plans

Dubbing the traffic problem as "America's impatience," Yoder says that two major plans present themselves to relieve what is commonly called the traffic problem.

"The first, and least expensive, is the re-zoning of highways," Yoder says, coinciding with views I expressed last week.

"Forty-five is not unsafe over many miles of our present highway system—other places where 35 is now legal, 25 is the absolute limit of safety," he continued. "The second, and more expensive, but which will surely follow, is one-way, trunk-line highways."

Discussing drivers, Yoder said that the majority do not break the traffic laws because they are laws, but because they think they are slipping something over on the cop.

"If you do not believe this, analyze the excuses one hears from violators, and in case you are not convinced, advertise the fact that there are no motorcycle officers on a certain piece of nice highway," the officer said. "True, the traffic officer's salary does not go far, but it does go on, whether or not he makes an arrest. His worth-weight to the public is not measured by the number of arrests, but by doing the most good for the most people. Also motorists should bear in mind that traffic officers do not make the laws and that they are paid only to enforce them. The next time an officer stops you, find out the section of law you violated, read it yourself, and then, possibly, you will be surprised he did not stop you sooner."

Asserting that the great indifference of the American public actually encourages the reckless driver, Yoder declared that some 30 laws governing the operation of a motor vehicle could be reduced to three, all under the classification of reckless driving.

Classifies Recklessness

Reckless driving, second degree—Speeding, cutting in, passing street cars, etc.

Reckless driving, third degree—Turning in business district, signals, etc.

"With something like this it might be possible to abolish the speed limit and leave it to the discretion of the officer and the judgment of the court whether or not the operator was driving in a reckless manner," Yoder concluded.

NEWS from ORANGE COUNTY

$8,000,000 IS RECEIVED FOR CITRUS FRUIT

FULLERTON, Oct. 31.—In spite of the weather last fall, the total returns from citrus crops for this season in northern Orange county will be even greater than last, according to a statement made today by Dale R. King, manager of the Northern Orange County Citrus exchange. About $8,000,000 is the return this season, Mr. King said, while last year, the figure was $7,789,000. The cost of operating packing houses, the expense connected with both purchasing and selling the fruit as well as preparation for sale, must be deducted from this amount.

Mr. King believes the natural balance of supply and demand which made the smaller crop sell for the higher figure, to be responsible for the advance in price. The highest price paid for valencias this season was $13.10 a box, according to figures in his office, the highest since 1918, when they sold for $16. For lemons this season the best price was $12.65.

It is estimated here that the total crop this year, including both valencias and navel oranges and lemons, is about two-thirds of that harvested last season. This data concerns about 20,000 acres in Fullerton, Placentia, Anaheim, La Habra and Yorba Linda districts.

Westminster

WESTMINSTER, Oct. 31.—The Happy Workers met Wednesday at the church hall, the crowd being the largest the society has entertained since the day of the opening. The receipts totaled over $27. Starting with ghostly eyes everywhere were cats, bats, witches and the ever-smiling pumpkin. Sheaves of cornstalks were also used effectively, while at the long tables, red and gold autumn leaves and chrysanthemums were combined to express the season's greeting.

Mrs. Fred Basse, with her long hair hanging in two braids, and her costume perfect to the last detail, made a wonderfully real ghost. Old Mother Witch was on the job in the person of Mrs. Charles Parr, grimacing and forbidding, with a following of ghosts, who were no less than the Mesdames Bould, Eastwood and Baxter. And although it was a grown-up party, a large number of school children who came in for their dinner capered about these incarnations of their beloved characters in high glee, reluctant to leave for their afternoon session at school. Ruth Melvin sang a goblin song during the noon hour and later on, a women's double quartet favored with several songs.

At the business meeting, it was decided to use the $100 now in the treasury to pay the society's debt on the piano bought several months ago.

The 244 bottles of vanilla and lemon extract the women have taken upon themselves to sell had arrived, and this was distributed amongst the different committees. The Rev. Weld was present at the business meeting and spoke of the billboard the society will earn by selling the extract.

Before the meeting adjourned, the president of the society, Mrs. L. E. Barry, called Mrs. R. A. W. to the side her, and in the name of the society, presented her with 50 jars of choice fruit and jellies, each jar representing the love and affection of as many families. Mrs. Barry said it had been just a year since the pastor and his wife had come into their midst, and the women wanted to do something to show their appreciation of the work here, so the fruit shower was decided upon. Mrs. Weld graciously responded in a few well-chosen words, and afterwards, the Rev. Mr. Weld added his thanks to those of his wife.

Plans for the November meeting, which will be in the afternoon, were also discussed. As this meeting ordinarily would come on the last Wednesday of the month, which would be the Wednesday before Thanksgiving, it was decided to hold it on November 18.

Three new members were received Wednesday, Mrs. George Clough, Mrs. E. Crawford and Mrs. H. H. Sands.

Many members of years gone by were present and visitors were in evidence amongst each group. What the society is growing in popularity there is no doubt, as the attendance is larger at each meeting.

Mrs. W. B. McCoy was in charge of the committee serving the delicious dinner at the noon hour. Mrs. Ralph Baxter was chairman of the committee in charge of decorations.

Mrs. Francis Penhall served a delicious chicken dinner Tuesday evening in honor of her husband's birthday. Enjoying the hospitality were Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Day and family, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Penhall, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Penhall, Mr. and Mrs. Merton Penhall, of Cypress; Mrs. Bessie Campbell, of Glendale; and Leslie Penhall.

Mr. and Mrs. Chris Knox, of Compton, have arrived in Westminster to make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Albert W. Knox until the home being erected for them is completed.

A letter from Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Talley states they arrived safely at their destination in Tennessee, October 22.

Mrs. H. O. Smith has returned to Westminster after visiting her family for more than a month in Illinois. Her little son, Alvin, who went with her, is now in good health and was back in school yesterday. Alvin had the misfortune to break his hip the first day he was in school last year and has been kept out of school until now.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hanline, of Fullerton, were luncheon guests Wednesday in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sigler.

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Darling and Mrs. Robert Cuddy, of Bakersfield,

Mesa Civic Body to Meet Monday

COSTA MESA, Oct. 31.—The regular meeting of the local chamber of commerce will be held here Monday night, according to announcement today. Several matters of interest are to be taken up.

One of the subjects to be discussed will be the extension of the street lighting system of Costa Mesa from the top of the hill leading to Newport Beach to the bottom of the hill. Several dangerous curves in the road make it imperative that the additional lights be secured at once, it is claimed.

left Thursday morning for their home after a pleasant visit here with Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Darling. A. L. Knight is confined to his home on account of illness.

Westminster folk will be glad to hear of the return of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Kibler and son from Vermont, where they have been visiting since April. The trip from Vermont was made here in two weeks. The Kiblers are visiting for several days with Mr. and Mrs. G. Adams, but expect to leave soon to make their home in Richfield, where Mr. Kibler will work.

A. H. Thomas, of Huntington Beach, father of E. A. Thomas, was taken Thursday to the Soldiers' hospital at Sawtelle. Mr. Thomas is a veteran of the Civil war, and has been seriously ill for several days.

Mrs. Floyd Morris and Mrs. W. A. Millholland played bridge Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. Fred Grable in Huntington Beach when the Entre Nous club met there.

Dinner guests of Mrs. Ralph Baxter were Mrs. E. R. Holland, of Ontario, and Mrs. May Baxter, of Eagle Rock.

A large number of visitors were present at the grammar school Wednesday when Mrs. Mary Thomason had her children on the bill for the assembly hour.

Their presentation was a result of their study of Indian life, and with their thorough understanding of what they were doing, the program was splendidly rendered and won expressions of appreciation from all who saw it.

The children wore Indian bonnets they had made themselves and there was an exhibition of Indian belongings. The girls sang a very pretty cradle song, "Rock-a-Bye, Hush-a-Bye," while the boys, of course, sang a fierce war song with a drill.

A sketch of Hiawatha's childhood was very good. Muriel Wardlow was "Nokomis" and John Day was "Hiawatha."

Pupils of Mrs. M. Fox's room enjoyed themselves Friday afternoon, when the boys taught the girls to home-made pumpkin pies. Games and Halloween stunts took the place of lessons during the last hour.

PLAN CHANGES IN WATER AND LIGHT OFFICE

ANAHEIM, Oct. 31.—Sweeping changes in the city's municipal light and water department are to be effected if an ordinance providing for the reorganization of that department and presented for its first reading at an adjourned meeting of the board of trustees held Thursday night, is passed.

The ordinance provides for the creation of the office of controller to take the place of the present rate collector and defines exhaustively the exact duties of this officer, the number of his assistants, and the revised methods under which the department will operate.

This action is the aftermath of an audit of the books of this department prepared recently by the Victor D. Loly Auditing company, in which it was revealed that owing to the inefficiency of the bookkeeping system that has been in force in the department for a number of years, the city has lost approximately $3,591.10 through delinquent light and water bills not collected.

With the department reorganized as provided for in the ordinance which passed its first reading Thursday night, and a more modern bookkeeping system which is now being installed the trustees expect to prevent further losses of this kind.

At the close of the parade, a street dance was held.

Nearly a hundred floats representing many of the business and industrial enterprises of the city took part in the parade, which extended for nearly six city blocks. Motorcycle officers cleared the way and Chief of Police J. S. Martin, driving a beautifully decorated car, led the line of march, followed closely by marchers with flaming torches. Three orchestras, two bands and two life and drum corps gave the event a true festival spirit.

Women fainted and many were nearly crushed when the great throng pressed around the platform where the Charleston contest, the opening feature of the street dance, was held.

A pledge of fair dealing

The strongest pledge of friendship and fair dealing known to the early Norsemen was the simple act of one man placing his hand between the hands of another. Ruthless, terrible and cruel as the Vikings were, no man broke this pledge without forfeiting his honor and the friendship of every true man.

Today modern business forms friends in every corner of the world through the pledge of the printed word. Advertisements are pledges made especially for you . . . pledges that advertised goods you buy are exactly as claimed.

No sane business man would advertise an unworthy product. Nothing could bring ruin more quickly. For when a product is advertised, it invites the criticism of millions of people. It must make good its claims, or it forfeits the patronage of thousands.

A product that is not advertised may be worth buying. But it is little known and its merit or unworthiness lies hid in comparative security. Every product you see advertised must be worthy. It is tested daily by thousands. It is proved in the pitiless glare of publicity—pledged to you in the advertising columns regularly.

Read the advertisements to know which goods are advertised.

An advertiser's pledge can be redeemed only by your entire satisfaction

NOTICE OF ASSESSMENT. Notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Red Hill Water Co. held on the sixth day of October, 1925, at the office of the Goldenwest Trust Association, an assessment of $5.00 per share was levied upon the capital stock of the corporation, payable on or before December 15, 1925, to the secretary of said corporation at his office at the Newport-Citrus Association on Newport, Tustin, Orange County, California.

Any stock upon which the assessment has not been paid on the 15th day of January, 1926, will be delinquent and advertised for sale at public auction.

Where there is anything in the song, "Yes, We Have No Bananas," or not, there is a woman on West Second street who can't sing this song and mean it, for on her front lawn yesterday, she found a whole crate of the fruit, according to a report at the police station.

Where the bananas came from, she does not know.

If the owner wants his bananas, he can have them by calling on the police.

Let Holmes protect your homes.

Funeral Notice

No auction and unless payment is made before said date, will be sold on February 1, 1926, to pay the delinquent assessment together with the cost of advertising and expense of sale.

BY ORDER OF THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS OF THE RED HILL WATER CO.

CANNED FOODS WEEK WILL BE OBSERVED HERE

With ever increasing quantities of fruits and vegetables—and especially vegetables—being produced in Orange County by contract between the growers and local and other canneries, more than usual interest and importance attaches to Canned Foods week, which comes next month.

And with the naming of J. N. Peters of Smart and Final company, as chairman of the local committee that will have charge of the observance of Canned Foods week, the wholesale and retail food distributors and many producers and canners of Orange County have joined in a movement that has for its purpose the dissemination of a better knowledge of the methods and products of one of the country's most important industries. This wide-spread interest is indicated by the fact that Canned Foods week this year is observed in practically every city of more than 10,000 population, as well as in hundreds of smaller communities.

Members of Committee
Serving with Chairman Peters on the local committee are leading men in their respective lines from all parts of the county as follows:

Anshelm—Fred Marsh, W. E. Renner.
Balboa—J. A. Grant, Charles Way, Buena Park—E. Moriarty.
Corona—R. T. Crawford, C. S. Gordon.
Costa Mesa—W. E. Hunter.
Fullerton—Wade Quanton, Fred Strauss.
Huntington Beach—Roy Smith, W. L. McKinney.
Garden Grove—E. O. Fulson.
Laguna Beach—Mrs. Emma Jane Pence.
La Habra—William Gluth.
Newport Beach—Mrs. Ida P. Naylor.
Orange—Alfred Huhn, C. J. Hessel.

Placentia—H. C. Foss.
Santa Ana—Marshall Keeler, M. R. Friend, Joe Hershiser, Hugh Gerard.
Westminster—O. J. Day.

The growth of the canning industry has been really phenomenal. Since 1889, the number of canneries has increased 150 per cent, and this does not nearly indicate the actual growth, because the capacity of the canneries has grown still faster. This is shown by the fact that the value of the industry's output has increased from about $50,000,000 in 1889 to more than $800,000,000 at the present time. Capital invested in the canning industry was $25,000,000 in 1889, as reported by the census, while at present it is estimated at $300,000,000.

Benefit to Agriculture
What this growth means to farmers, horticulturists, dairymen and other agricultural interests is revealed by the value of the materials utilized by the canning industry. In 1889, the cost of raw materials to the canneries was $30,000,000. At present the industry buys about $300,000,000 worth of materials annually. This money goes direct to growers of canners' crops, dairymen and others, and has led to the development of a specialized agriculture that is every year becoming more important in various parts of the country.

From the consumer's point of view, interest centers chiefly in the products of the canneries as they reach the table. In this, too, there have been striking developments. Not many years ago the variety of products was not large, including mainly the three staples, corn, peas and tomatoes, along with milk, meat and sea foods. Today, the industry produces more than 200 varieties, ranging from the staple tomato to the red-hot tamale. At the same time, there has been a steady improvement in quality, based upon scientific research financed by the national association formed by members of the canning industry.

Canned Foods week is sponsored by seven associations, including the National Wholesale Grocers' association, American Wholesale Grocers' association, National Food Brokers' association, National Association of Retail Grocers, National Chain Store Grocers' association, Canning Machinery and Supplies association, and the National Canners' association.

President Denies Sargent Will Quit

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Reports that Attorney General Sargent will resign from the cabinet and later run for the U. S. senate were denied by President Coolidge. The president was described as believing that Sargent is not "in politics" and for that reason had appointed him to the office of attorney general, which should be kept free from partisan politics.

PSYCHOLOGY OF CRIME WAVE IS PASTOR'S TOPIC

Mental suggestions of vice, crime and degeneracy, derived from motion pictures and reading matter, are in a great measure responsible for the present state of juvenile delinquency, in the opinion of the Rev. F. T. Porter, pastor of the Christian church, of Santa Ana, who spoke yesterday before the Knights of the Round Table, at their luncheon meeting at St. Ann's Inn.

The pastor talked on "Juvenile Welfare," a subject which is now receiving much attention at the hands of the knights. Though he admitted that crime, and particularly juvenile delinquency, has reached such proportions as to challenge the organized forces of society, he was not surprised at results registered, viewing the problem from a psychological standpoint.

Determine Causes of Crime.
In dealing with crime, the pastor observed, society has apparently lost sight of its psychological features, of the effects of mental suggestions, transmitting thought of crime. Instead of giving our entire time to building new jails and reformatories, writing new codes, and increasing our courts and law enforcement bodies, we should give our attention to the causes of crime, and apply the necessary remedies, he suggested.

"In the matter of dealing with juveniles, we have put the cart before the horse," he remarked, questioning the value of welfare activities, which begin only after the delinquent boy or girl has been brought up in the court, but ignore the preceding cause.

Thought Is Potent Force.
Speaking at some length on crime psychology and crime atmosphere, engendered by improper pictures, and sensational newspaper stories, he said that thought is a potent, motive force, which is projected as effectively as the electrical waves of the radio.

"Good, clean and wholesome thoughts are reflected in a clean life, kind acts and good citizenship," he remarked.

"Thoughts carrying suggestions of crime, depravity, and wrongdoing, when propelled into the consciousness of young people, lacking the necessary strength of character, are often acted upon with disastrous results," he added.

"We plant the seed of crime and vice in the minds of our young people, and then we wonder at the harvest," he continued. "It isn't altogether consistent to ignore the principal causes of crime, and then bemoan their effects."

Foes in Next War.
Calling attention to symptoms which indicate a breaking down of society, he predicted that the next big war would not be one of nations against nations, race and race, one religion against another, but a world-wide fight between the forces of right and justice against those of greed and corruption.

He deplored the present tendency of ignoring the old standards of American family life and social responsibility, the absence of which has resulted in an increase of immorality, marital infidelity, and a law breaking, the speaker asserted.

In closing, the minister suggested that parents give more time to their children, and develop a home atmosphere that will counteract outside influences. In this connection, he deplored the shifting of responsibility of parents on to the schools and other agencies not equipped to do the work of the home.

A resolution endorsing the work of the Parent-Teacher organizations and urging every member of the table join these organizations, was adopted. In this connection, Dr. Will A. Flood and James Workman commended the juvenile work carried on by the P. T. A.

Stoking Is Taught As Household Art

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The tricks of handling a coal shovel are being taught the householder this winter by the Chicago fuel research institute.

The institute, the first of its kind, has a course in stoking, intended to instruct in the "art" of heaving coal into the furnace. Stoking, the institute maintains, is an "art."

By correct shovelling, the temperamental flights of an ailing furnace may be soothed and combustion efficiency intensified, the institute points out.

The institute is formed of Chicago members of the western branch of the Retail Coal Merchants' association and desired to bring about co-operation between dealer and consumer in handling coal problems.

It supplies all manner of data relating to coal and heating plants, even to choosing the right furnace and correct grade of coal.

Flying Golf Ball Kills Two Birds

LONDON, Oct. 31.—Golfers who claim to have killed a bird in flight with a golf ball have been gone one better by a Londoner who claims he killed two birds with one ball. He is J. Bamford, professional of the Curzon Park Golf club. According to Bamford the ball at the beginning of a smashing drive cut one bird in two, and further on hit a second which it also killed.

Sunstrand adding machine is shining as the highest-priced motor, best.

SPORTS OF ALL SORTS

When the United States Lawn Tennis association was having its many and varied battles about the player-writer rule, no one dreamed that professional baseball ever would have such a problem.

But the well-known problem has arrived and it may be one of the most important subjects for consideration at the annual meeting of the major leagues in December.

The tennis association charged that amateur players who permitted the use of their names and reputations over newspaper articles were professionals.

Baseball is now complaining that professional players who sell their names for newspaper articles are amateurs and should not be allowed to write.

The Baseball Writers' association it is understood, will consider a proposal asking major leagues to prohibit players from signing up with newspapers and syndicates, and a motion may be made to expel from the association any member who writes articles under players' names.

A movement against players was started by the umpires the late world series when complained to Commissioner about criticism directed their judgment in articles are supposed to have been by Muddy Ruel, Roger Tugman and Bill McKelch.

Using the complaint, the commissioner said he favored of curbing what has been a general abuse.

Average newspaper reader believe that the article appearing under the names of star baseball players are written by them, in the majority of cases, they are not.

Evans, American league umpire is the only writer connected with baseball, who writes his own articles. The others merely give an outline of their opinion to a reporter who puts it in shape.

In many cases the articles have been written without even getting a word from the player supposed to be doing the stuff.

Players are hard to find after a game and they are none too gracious in even being bothered about furnishing material for copy for which they are being paid.

It is important that the copy be filed as soon as possible, and when the dead-line approaches, the reporter, very frequently has to sit down and write the yarn himself.

It is not a rare occasion to hear one of these trained seals say: "Aw, go on and write anything! Just so you don't get me in bad."

The real comment about plays and players in an important series like the world's series, which is the most interesting bit of the copy, the players are unwilling to give. Most of them refuse to criticize another player.

As far as the complaint of the umpires against printed criticism is concerned, there is no reason why a player should not be allowed to express himself. If the player thinks the umpires used bad judgment in calling plays or balls and strikes, he ought to be allowed to say so as long as there is no rule against writing.

Articles from men like John McGraw are both interesting and useful because McGraw knows what he is talking about and his articles are intelligently handled.

There is some doubt though that the fans care much about the opinions of substitute players, rubbers, bat boys and program sellers around a world's series game. As a rule, they say very little and what they have to say isn't worth very much.

The sale of names in important events like the world's series has become such an abuse that legitimate sources of news are closed to reporters who make a living trying to get and write what the public is most interested in.

GRANGE TO GO AGAINST PENN ON WET FIELD

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 31.—One year ago, minus a day or so, 60,000 spectators thronged into the Urbana stadium to see Michigan and Illinois play. They were hardly seated when a tremendous roar went through the stands:

"There he goes! There he goes! That's Red."

It was "Red" Grange, the Wheat-on ice man doing his stuff.

Before Red got through going he had gone through the entire Michigan team for four touchdowns in 12 minutes and was called to the Illinois bench to get his breath.

That same cry—"There he goes"—has been heard for two years on practically every gridiron in the western conference because "Red" always goes, even if he doesn't always score.

Illinois fans, gathered here in thousands, were betting money today that the old battle cry would be heard several times this afternoon when the Illinois eleven meets Pennsylvania in the most important football game of the day.

Pennsylvania fans, in legions, were betting just as much and offering odds that Grange would be stopped and that means that Illinois would lose.

Grange had a battle on his hands. He not only had eleven young huskies, constituting the best defense in the east, to get through, but he had to overcome the handicap of a wet, soggy field that was made soft by a heavy snowfall.

SAN DIEGO GRIDMEN SPEND NIGHT HERE

En route to Pasadena where it will meet the Crown City preps in a Coast Preparatory league contest this afternoon, the San Diego high school football squad stopped at St. Ann's Inn here last night. The squad was headed by John M. Perry, head coach; John Hobbs, assistant coach; Al Penrose, manager, and Glenn O. Perkins, principal of the San Diego high school.

The following players registered at the local hotel: Buono, Campbell, Donohue, Elckmeyer, Evans, Hansen, Hardy, Hubbard, Jackson, Jew, Kemp, K. Kemp, Killingsworth, Kleinsmid, Martin, Mason, Moeller, Palmer, L. Peterson, W. Peterson, Ramsey, Reed, Ritchey, Russo, Saunders, Silverthorn, Schreidman, Swartz, Smith, Thomas, Wadham, West, Warren, Winnek, Yamamoto, Barnes and J. Kemp.

SPOKANE, Wash.—A game this afternoon between the Haskell Indians and Gonzaga university of Spokane was the climax to a big inter-tribal Indian pow wow which brought thousands of Indians to Spokane.

PULLMAN, Wash.—The University of Washington was to get its first real test in conference football here today when the huskies clashed with Washington State College Cougars.

NEW HAVEN, Conn.—Facing the highest test of the season in its climb for the eastern football championship, the powerful army eleven from West Point met Yale here today in the outstanding eastern game of the day.

BERKLEY, Cal.—"Slip" Madigan's St. Mary's squad was the favorite here today in its clash with the southern branch Grizzlies on Coliseum field. Loren Peake and Morris Jesup, two of the branch's best backfield men, were out of the game due to injuries.

WHITTIER, Occidental and Whittier met here today in a Southern California conference clash that held much portent for them and all other teams in the conference. If Whittier wins, it probably will win the conference title. If Occidental is heard at the closing gun it will throw the race wide open, with the Southern Branch and today's contestants in a tie for the leadership.

LOS ANGELES—The University of California, in its only appearance in this section of the state this year, took the field against Pomona, member of the Southern California conference, the "minor league" of coast football, at the Coliseum today.

FORMER FOLLIESGIRL LEADS TULANE IN YELS AND SONGS

MARY DRAPER
No wonder Tulane University of New Orleans gave middle west fans a surprise when it soundly trounced Northwestern, 18-7. Previously Northwestern had held the strong Chicago eleven to two field goals. But who couldn't play super-football with such a cheer leader as Tulane boasts. Here we have Mary Draper—former Follies beauty, urging the southerners on. Gaze on Miss Draper and the rest of the story is easy.

POLY LIGHTIES HUMBLE TIGER CLASS B, 31-0

After two "hard luck" defeats in league games, the Santa Ana high school Class B (130-pound) football team broke into the win column when it defeated the South Pasadena lightweights on the opponent's field yesterday.

The score was 31 to 0. Throughout the game the locals completely outclassed the Tiger Cubs team.

While Santa Ana went on a rampage in their attack, their opponents were held to four first down through the entire game.

Near the close of the first quarter the Santa Ana eleven gained possession of the ball near midfield and opened up an offensive attack with a march that ended when James Musick, fullback, plunged across for the first score.

On a deceptive criss-cross play within striking distance of the goal, Preble made the second touchdown, reeling off 25 yards in his dash.

Even Coach Ray Adkinson's second team players were too good for South Pasadena. A complete new lineup was sent in at the beginning of the second half.

They chalked up a touchdown when Jack Schultz, fullback, intercepted a pass and raced 50 yards to the goal.

The regulars went in for the last period and scored twice. Harvey Bear, right half, crossed the goal in a 30-yard dash on the trick Santa Ana criss-cross. The final counter was made when "Lorry" Walbridge blocked a punt and Judson Riley scooped up the oval and stepped over the last chalk line.

Michigan Eleven Takes On Middies

FERRY FIELD, ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct. 31.—An undefeated university of Michigan football team, regarded as a possible western conference winner, meets the strong Annapolis midshipmen here this afternoon in one of the outstanding intersectional clashes of the day.

Micks Favored to Beat Georgia Tech

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 31.—The Notre Dame eleven was favored to win over Georgia Tech in their annual football game on Grant field here this afternoon.

The weather was cold and damp and the field thoroughly soaked. Coach Knute Rockne let it be known that the weather suited him fine and predictions were made that the South Bend team would win by at least two touchdowns. Notre Dame won last year, 13 to 3.

BANK PRESIDENT DIES

OFFICER GILLS GUNMAN

UNION CITY, N. J., Oct. 31.—Single handed, Lt. Emil Fuhrman, of the Hudson boulevard police, yesterday fought seven gunmen, killing one, and enabled officers to arrest the others.

Boxer Floors Foe But Kayoes Self

BOSTON, Oct. 31.—George Marble, amateur featherweight, pulled one for the book last night when he knocked himself out in a contest against John Fitzgerald, East Boston.

In the first round Marble knocked Fitzgerald down but he swung so hard that he lost his balance and fell backward on his head. The force of the blow knocked him senseless.

The referee started the count with the two boxers on the floor, but Fitzgerald got to his feet at nine and won the fight.

'POP' FEARS CARDS ARE OVERCONFIDENT

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 31.—With two conference victories already under their belt, the Stanford Cardinals were to meet the Oregon university eleven here this afternoon, confident of a rather easy victory.

In fact this confidence has somewhat worried coach "Pop" Warner. A football team isn't supposed to think it can lick any one until the game starts. So

"Pop" has been warning his men that Oregon, despite its rather weak showing to date, may open up with the unexpected and the Cardinals must be ready to meet any emergency.

Most of Oregon's drilling has been to perfect a defense for Ernie Nevers, Stanford star, and Nevers may not play more than a short time in today's game. It all depends on how the score is running.

Hyland was expected to work at left half for the Cardinals while Middleton was to give Ted Shipkey a rest and go in at left end, Warner announced.

Seals Win From Louisville And Capture Series

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 31.—The San Francisco Seals, champions of the Pacific Coast league, today were celebrating a victory over the Louisville Colonels, winners in the American association. The Seals ended the series here yesterday, taking the deciding game by a score of 9 to 8.

In coping the series, the locals escaped defeat by a narrow margin after having a three game lead early in the week. Most of the games were wild hitting affairs with plenty of ragged playing.

The Colonels left for home last night. They had planned to meet a picked team of big league stars tomorrow in Los Angeles but Judge Landis frowned on the idea.

LOCAL VARSITY KEEPS IN GRID TITLE RUNNING

Beatty, Harkleroad, Smith Score Touchdowns; To Meet Riversiders Next

BY ALFRED AULT

Santa Ana junior college's grid team defeated Pomona junior college here yesterday by a score of 28 to 0. The victory of Coach Graham Harris' cohorts places them in a position to bid for the Southern California junior college conference title.

By winning over Riverside and Fullerton in the next league encounters, the Santa Anans will be in a three cornered tie for the pennant with Riverside and Pasadena.

Four touchdowns gave the locals their win yesterday. Never once did the Pomona aggregation threaten to score. They were continually pushed back to their goal forcing most of the play to be carried on defensively in their own territory.

The credit for the Santa Ana eleven's win fell in large part to Blanchard ("Snowy") Beatty, shifty little quarterback who is the "Al Clayses" of this year's college squad. He scored two of the Santa Ana touchdowns and broke away for numerous slippery runs that had the visitors puzzled.

Siphed Blocks Punt
The first touchdown came soon after the opening of the second quarter. Pomona, failing to make yardage with the Santa Ana line-men snoring plays, attempted to punt to safety from their 20-yard line. Irwin Siphed, Santa Ana guard, broke through, blocking the kick and recovering the ball on the 12-yard line.

After four plays, Smith went over the goal from the 4-yard marker. Captain Dan Cook converted for Santa Ana.

During the rest of the half, no other scores were recorded. In the third period, the Santa Ana team went into the tilt fighting, and after a punting exchange pressed down to the Pomona goal where Beatty carried the ball across.

Again the same process was repeated for the next score. Beatty ran a Pomona punt back from the 60-yard line for 35 yards. By ground gaining bucks with Harkleroad, Cook and Smith carrying the ball, the Santa Ana team chalked up the third score when Harkleroad lunged across.

Field Goal Failed
Santa Ana came down the field for another tally when they encountered unexpected opposition and attempted a field goal from the 16-yard line. Captain Cook's try, however, went to one side.

Not to be denied, Santa Ana came back in the next few plays for a touchdown. The last score of the game was gained when "Tubby" Thompson, big Santa Ana center, snatched a Pomona pass out of the ozone on the Pomona 32-yard line and was not downed until he had reeled off 15 yards. On a cross buck, Beatty made the rest of the distance to the goal.

Lancaster, Ronin and Bromell were outstanding players on the Santa Ana defense.

The lineup:
Santa Ana
Lancaster...REL... Truesdell
Fields...RTL... Hadley
Ronin...RGL... Gars
Thompson...C... Hall
Siphed...LGR... Wilson
Bromell...LGR... Kirkpatrick

Substitutes: Santa Ana—Ramirez for Ronin; Van Dyke for Chaffee; Webber for Van Dyke; Lewis for Harkleroad; Pomona—Gable for Hall; Bright for Wilcox; Hesselbrow for Pope; Benham for Alley.

SEND ACTION PICTURES BY RADIO WAVES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31.—Movies over the air is the next great achievement of radio engineers. Moving pictures will flash across the continent at the dizzy speed of 156,800 miles a second, with the speed of light. And they will appear on a screen in natural colors in the homes of millions of radio users.

The introduction of the radio-vision receiving set heralds a new era for radio science.

An unpretentious cabinet converts radio waves into light and shadows.

This remarkable transformation is accomplished by means of a lamp contained in the box. This lamp lights and extinguishes a half million times a second.

A disk or ring, containing small lenses around its outer edge, is contained in this box. The purpose of this disk is to chop up the light and shadows into lines and adjacent successive lines.

A small electric motor, likewise contained in this box, revolves the lens-carrying disk.

A white screen, which may be held in a small picture frame, is placed on the wall for receiving the motion picture.

The light from the lamp inside of this box, or small cabinet, is reflected onto the miniature screen through a slit arrangement by means of a prism reflector, placed on top of the box.

In this way the receptionist can switch from hearing his favorite orchestra to watching it play. Or he may hear it and watch it at the same time.

C. Francis Jenkins is the inventor of the lamp which performs the wonderful task of transforming radio waves to light and shadows by lighting and extinguishing itself a half million times a second.

This marvelous globe has earned for itself the name of "the modern Aladdin lamp."

The Jenkins radio-vision lamp operates on the Wheatstone bridge principle whereby a little change in electric voltage gives a large change in light flux or flow.

This lamp bears a relation similar to the function performed by a sensitive mineral used at the radio-vision transmitting station. This sensitive mineral—potassium, for instance—converts the motion picture at the sending station into electrical values for transmission on a radio carrier wave.

The Jenkins radio-vision lamp reverses this process, changing the electric current back to picture values.

Once motion pictures by radio are introduced into thousands of homes, this lamp will be as commonplace as the electric light bulb or radio vacuum tube.

CHOIR GIRLS WIN HONORS BY MEANS OF RADIO'S HELP

CHICAGO, Oct. 31.—The rise to prominence by two obscure choir girls by the helping hand of radio broadcasting is one of the most romantic stories in annals.

Five months ago two girls were singing a sacred duet in a choir in one of those story-book-like churches in a Chicago suburb.

With the elegance and finish of seasoned prima donnas, they projected their silvery tones through every nook and cranny of the little church.

John Clark, assistant program director of station WHT, seated in a rear pew, was struck by the sheer beauty of the voices and after services sought an introduction.

Dorothy Wilkins and Thora Martens were persuaded to enter radioland and broadcast their songs regularly for WHT.

Recently J. J. Shubert was making another production cast for the opera hit, "The Student Prince." The party was practically recruited but two name parts were missing.

An O. S. O. cry was sent out to all the Shubert agencies but to no avail.

While Shubert was writing telegrams in a room in a Chicago hotel, he turned on a radio loaned to him by his friend. The choir girls were on the air singing one of their best numbers in such an impressive style that the producer immediately had his Chicago director make arrangements for an audition.

Bootleggers Aided By Radio Concert

RICHMOND HILL, L. I., Oct. 31.—The following letter tells how a law-abiding radio broadcast station has been inadvertently aiding a group of rum runners:

"Dear Glenn C. Smith:

"Don't know whether you will be flattered or not, but ever so many rum runners have dubbed your band 'The Bootleggers' Own.' We hear you often from WAHG as that station goes out over the water in great shape. Men who go down to the sea in ships at night enjoy your music—especially the late programs.

"About midnight when you come on we are getting ready to nose into the creeks and bays with our cargo. Our radio picks up your jazz and it makes the boat seem like a pleasure craft. On several instances the coast guard has been fooled on account of your jazz numbers. Your dance orchestra sure is appreciated even though we are in no position to do any jazz steps. More power to you.

"Canada Redtop, "Toronto Slim and "Brunswick Bill."

DISTANCE FANS EAGER

It is expected that some new distance transmission records will be made this winter. Already "DX" bugs are camped at the dials and this interest in distance reception with more power being added to many stations indicates a good winter for long-distance fans.

FOR GOOD CONNECTIONS

When tightening wires under a terminal, the wire should always be twisted the way the nut turns. This prevents the wire from being loosened when the nut is turned.

COLLEGE CREDITS FOR RADIO COURSE

Short Cuts

Things to Know in Building and Operating a Receiver

If you have a troublesome microphonic effect or a continuous howling, it may be because vibration of the loudspeaker diaphragm shakes the tube elements. Remedies include: moving the speaker farther from the set, putting the set on sponge rubber supports or using vibrationless tube sockets.

In a two-step audio-frequency receiver, a four and one-half volt C battery in the grid return cuts B-battery drain more than 30 per cent. To do this, connect the two negative filament posts on the transformers, run the C-battery negative to it and the C-battery positive to the negative A-battery line.

You needn't rewire your set if you find the wires need shielding. Simply brush the present wires with liquid "spaghetti," which can be bought at radio stores.

When marking a panel for instrument holes, draw all scratch lines on the back. Then you won't have to remove the lines with emery cloth. But before you drill, be sure the holes are in the correct position.

A pointed piece of pencil lead held tightly against a crystal by means of a binding post makes an excellent "catwhisker" for a silicon or galena crystal.

EVENING SALUTATION

I like the man who faces what he must
... Envis not,
Nor loses faith in man; but does his best,
Nor ever murmurs at his humbler lot,
But, with a smile and words of hope, gives zest

Who, by a life heroic, conquers fate.

WE ARE CONCERNED

"We are deeply concerned with a water supply from the outside, and no matter what it costs we will have to bring it here."

This declaration was made by Supervisor S. H. Finley of Santa Ana in an interview yesterday. Supervisor Finley's statement is a plain statement of a situation that we face. A realization of the truth of this statement has come to us gradually. Has anyone advanced an argument or a statement of fact against it?

As a county, then, we are vitally interested in the visit of the United States senate committee that has been in Southern California for 10 days past, now inspecting the physical conditions along the Colorado river. The Colorado river is our one hope for a water supply from the outside. We are therefore directly interested, as residents of this county, in having the United States build a high dam in Boulder canyon, and we are directly interested, as citizens of the United States, in the building of the all-American canal so that the waters conserved by the dam may be kept on United States soil, entirely within control of the United States and for the use of lands within the United States.

NO MORE TAX PUBLICITY

The big tax-reduction game is on, and soon everybody will be squabbling about it, with a million people giving a million kinds of advice to Congress, and everybody in Washington arguing for a different program.

One thing, though, there will not be much argument about. Nearly everybody in public and private life seems agreed that the income tax publicity clause serves no useful purpose and had better be repealed. So it will die a quiet death.

It's queer about that provision, too. So many people expected that it would serve a useful purpose, exposing the tax-dodgers and encouraging larger tax returns.

It did not hurt the dodgers much because there was no way of telling from the published facts what the taxpayers' actual income was, and there is no dependable evidence that it did much to raise the total tax collections. What it did beyond question was to entertain busybodies and misrepresent the position of a lot of honest citizens. So it had better go.

If there is to be continued publicity of tax returns, it should be complete enough to show total income and exemptions as well as tax payment. But most people seem agreed now that such matters are nobody's business but the taxpayer's and Uncle Sam's.

The press has been accused of responsibility for this publicity business. Such papers as really favored publicity beforehand have probably realized their mistake. Many papers never availed themselves of the publication privilege. Others mostly printed the tax lists only because others were doing it, and it was "news." Nearly all of the papers have found publication more trouble than it is worth, and will be glad to get rid of it.

PROHIBITION AND PROSPERITY

While most of our European friends are envying or hating us because of our prosperity, and sneering at us for our hypocrisy about prohibition, Lloyd George strikes a different note.

To the Welsh statesman the situation is very simple. America is immensely prosperous—he sees that and admits it grudgingly. Also America has gone dry. Not teetotal dry, to be sure, but dry enough to produce a big economic effect. Wherefore, putting two and two together, Lloyd George calmly tells his European brethren that prohibition has made America prosperous.

An American observer, too, could make a good argument for that conclusion. There are plenty of figures to support it, in spite of the failures and mistakes of dry enforcement. More is heard of the failures than the successes; the foes of prohibition make more noise than their friends, and the drunken make more noise than the sober. Yet it can be shown that far less money is spent for liquor now than was spent before the dry amendment was adopted, and that there is more sobriety and more of the fruits of sobriety in the form of thrift and progress.

If Lloyd George is right, then Europe needn't continue in its envy. It has the same remedy in its own hands. Let Europe go dry, too, and prosper—though in doing so it might profit by our enforcement mistakes.

ROUGE FOR MEN

Attention, men! The news from Paris is just too arresting for anything.

Men there are following the women's lead. Males in Egypt and Babylon used to do it, if tombstone art tells the truth. But now—don't be impatient. We're getting around to the point.

The men are using rouge. Also lipsticks. Also powder puffs, hair paste and a special paste for the eyebrows.

"Powder was always used by many men," says the latest advice; "but the powder puff is becoming more and more popular every day among the male sex, say the beauty barbers." (Now, for Heaven's sake, keep still a minute till we tell you the rest!)

"The healthful, red-brown, wind complexion so popular at the present moment is nothing more than skillfully applied rouge and powder. The men are becoming as clever as the women with their cosmetics, which, after all, is merely a matter of practice."

And now, old dears, you can go around behind the garage and say anything in reason.

FANCY WESKITS AGAIN

From New York comes the glad news: "After almost a quarter of a century the fancy waistcoat is being mentioned again in fashion forecasts. The Fifth Avenue merchants are making a feature of the vivid vest."

It proves again the "law of cycles." All things move in cycles, say philosophers, and sartorial fashions exemplify a rule of the universe. What is tucked ed away in the bottom of an old bureau drawer will come to light and high regard again, if given time enough, just as surely as what goes up will come down. Are we, then, coming back some day to hoop skirts or bustles?

Many a middle-aged man, reading this fashion note, will start rummaging among discarded clothes of the quaint old period when women were wearing puff sleeves and long skirts. Man's garb hasn't changed so much in this 20 years or so as woman's has. But many a man has missed those colored vests, gorgeous in pattern, hue and button. They will bring new life to a dull and disregarded sex.

Suspenders, often likewise gorgeous, one recalls, used to be worn under those old-time weskits. Again, after all these belted years, the man who prefers to hang his trousers from the shoulder will be able to don galluses with a clear conscience.

FUN BUT NO DAMAGE

"Have all the fun you want, but don't get destructive," say the Santa Ana police in a Halloween message to the boys of Santa Ana.

It is an admonition that might well be reiterated by the parents of every boy in Santa Ana. Youth, often, is thoughtless.

Grown-ups can have fun out of Halloween. But they don't enjoy having flowers ruined, flower pots broken, automobiles damaged, gates destroyed or windows smashed.

Education for Peace

Long Beach Press-Telegram

Better relationship between American republics can be brought about through education, according to the theory advanced by the president of the Latin Protective league, Julio V. Urburu, in an address in Long Beach recently. It is a simple problem, and can be solved quickly and satisfactorily just as soon as the people of these two continents are ready to reach a plane of common understanding, says this authority. Perhaps the first need is an understanding of motives. The Latin nations, for instance, have criticized and feared the Monroe Doctrine, and have characterized the United States as a dictator of their policies and welfare. The fact is, the Monroe Doctrine is designed for mutual protection, of the United States and of all the free countries of the western hemisphere. Never has it been invoked with any other intention, nor can there by any instance cited wherein this policy has been upheld except to the benefit of those Americans most directly concerned.

In educating the people of North and South America for peace and good will, the course of instruction should not be one-sided. No doubt the people of the United States have many handicaps to overcome in their endeavor to reach a fairer understanding of South American opinion and temperament. It is likewise true that the people of the southern continent must be rid of some of the popular misconceptions cherished there concerning North Americans.

Education undoubtedly is the best medium for uprooting prejudices and for clearing misunderstandings; and the best form of education is that which comes from direct contact with the issues. As travel between the two continents is popularized, through the medium of better steamship service and improved highways, as business relations are expanded, and as the radio brings a direct exchange of ideas, this bond of friendship will be strengthened to the common benefit.

Education is the great force for the advancement of civilization; but there must be a willingness and an ability to discern between the genuine and the spurious, between fact and fiction.

Radicals in Chicken Picking

San Francisco Chronicle

Radical thought has so far invaded many of the arts that the man who would find fame is likely to have more use for a nifty hook to the jaw than for logic to uphold orthodox opinions.

A case in point is that of a chicken-picking expert, who went to a ball given by his fellow craftsmen, convinced that the proper way to pick a chicken is to start at right center. He expressed his convictions in the presence of several gentlemen of heterodox opinion.

These immediately advanced the modernist theory that the proper place to start on a chicken is at left center. In the ensuing debate the expert had won a decision fairly upon points, when one of his opponents smote him. The others, liking the idea, followed the example. Thus the champion found his way to the receiving hospital, convinced against his will and of the same opinion still.

The result is not unusual. Many a championship has been decided the same way.

EACH CITIZEN MUST AID IN WAR ON DISEASE

To the individual there are few things of so great importance as health. Upon health depend his attitude toward life and his relationship with his fellowmen.

You, as a citizen, should be interested in the health of your community. Without health there can be no real prosperity and any material success obtained without health would be of small benefit.

Every case of a communicable disease in a city threatens the welfare of every citizen. Did you ever stop to think that every case of tuberculosis, every case of typhoid fever, is to some degree a menace to every uninfected person?

Modern civilization in its development has become more and more complex as a result of the many requirements of social and commercial intercourse we are brought more frequently in contact with our fellowman and his life.

Today a number of cities require that no person afflicted with any communicable disease shall be employed in a bake shop, restaurant, confectionery, etc., and general information regarding the spread of communicable disease is disseminated among the people.

We may be exposed to disease in insanitary barber shops. Many people are exposed to diseases of servants, not only their own diseases but to the diseases in families and houses from whence the servants came.

Unless proper precautions are taken we may be exposed to the diseases of those who send their clothes to the same washerwoman. So it goes through a long list of contacts which modern civilization has produced.

In street cars we come into close contact with people from many homes and there are still other means by which we are brought into contact with our fellow citizens and their diseases.

The fly that breeds in filth by its sociable habits of going from one house to another may carry disease to people who never see the sick. In church or in the theater we come into contact with people from many houses in some of which there may be persons sick with communicable diseases.

It is only proper, in view of these facts, that each household give special attention to the welfare of other households by keeping at home those sick with communicable diseases until all danger of spreading the disease is past.

No citizen will wish by lack of due care to be responsible for sickness occurring in other families, sickness that may deprive others of life.

Hallowe'en Pranks Are Now in Order

Healthy-Minded People

Pomona Progress.

The community is making a big effort these days to secure physical health both for the children and older folks. Physical training and instruction in hygiene, health centers and board of health work are removing many bad conditions and showing people how to take care of themselves.

But some folks of a nervous and introspective temperament have not yet acquired a full degree of mental health, and they injure themselves by worries about big things and little. Doctors and others frequently tell such persons that they must exercise more will power and suggest to themselves healthful and confident thoughts which will assist them to meet the difficulties of life bravely, and not fret over imaginary troubles. Many people are greatly helped by this philosophy.

There are others who find it difficult to command their own thoughts. The more they try to banish melancholy suggestions, the more those morbid ideas return. People of that type can usually find a remedy for their troubles in some new and interesting form of activity.

It is amazing how down-hearted people will see life in an entirely different aspect when they take hold of something that really interests them. If they have a fondness for music, athletics, cards or social life, such diversions will often revolutionize their point of view. Their thoughts have been circulating in too narrow a round, and some change of attention will set healthful mental currents in motion and assist them to see life in a normal way.

It is worth a great deal to people to keep a healthy-minded outlook. The folks who greet the world with a smile, and who enter cheerfully into its activities and radiate sunshine, are the ones who succeed in business, and make friendships.

Worth While Verse

BUGLE SONG

The splendor falls on castle walls
And snowy summ'old in story;
The long light shak across the lakes
And the wild carol leaps in glory.
Blow, bugle, blow, set the wild echoes flying,
Blow, bugle; answer, echoes, dying, dying, dying.

O hark, O hear! how thin and clear,
And thinner, clear, farther going!
O sweet and far from cliff and scar
The horns of Elfin faintly blowing!
Blow, let us hear the gleads replying:
Blow, bugle; answer, echoes, dying, dying, dying.

O love, they die to rich sky,
They faint on hill and river;
Our echoes roll from soul to soul,
And grow for ever and for ever.
Blow, bugle, blow, set the echoes flying,
And answer, echoes, answer, dying, dying, dying.

—Tennyson.

AS THE GOVERNOR SEES IT

—Since commendation of Governor Richardson seems to be the order of the day, may one not praise him for the open-minded and judicial frame of mind he displayed while reviewing the "Big Hutch" parole case.

The governor opened the case, so to speak, by declaring that he was determined to find out if there was any real reason why "Big Hutch" should not be turned loose, and incidentally declared that the only persons objecting to the liberation of that well known criminal are those who are anxious to injure him (the governor) politically and bring his administration into disrepute. As the hearing went on, time and again, the governor reiterated this statement.

If the governor is correct in the view that all who object to Big Hutch's release are opposed to Governor Richardson, his chances for renomination and subsequent re-election would not seem to be good.

SPEAKING OF DEFINITION—

A "selfish politician," according to Harry Chandler of the Los Angeles Times, is any man or woman who does or says anything calculated to prevent Mr. Chandler, and his associates, from grabbing the waters of the Colorado river for use on their hundreds of thousands of acres of land in Mexico.

Governor Richardson, however, does not exactly agree with his friend Mr. Chandler as to the meaning of the word "politician." According to the governor, the word means anyone who is opposed to anything Governor Richardson says or does. Any one doing this is, naturally and of course, crooked, corrupt, and selfish, so perhaps the two gentlemen are not so very far apart as to the meaning of the word.

FOOD FOR SERIOUS THOUGHT—

The Boulder dam and all-American canal projects have been given much publicity and endorsement by well known Californians during the past few days, the occasion being the senatorial inquiry into the whole Colorado river project, held at Los Angeles, San Diego and in various places in Arizona.

Of the many who addressed the senatorial party, Mayor John L. Bacon of San Diego may be given credit for talking most plainly and to the point.

Calling a spade a spade, he declared that within the next fifteen to twenty years the thousands of rich and productive acres comprising the Imperial valley will be completely inundated by the raging waters of the Colorado, unless a flood control plan similar to the Boulder dam project is placed in operation.

CLOSE ESTIMATING—State

SIMPLY A SUGGESTION—A

great many San Diego county people are peeved, not to say indignant, because the great Santa Margarita ranch, in San Diego county, which contains thousands of acres of as fertile land as lies anywhere, is assessed at $5 per acre. The contention is that if the land was assessed at approximately its real value the result would be the subdivision and sale of a large portion of it.

If San Diego county could borrow Jim Sleeper to do its assessing for a few years it might be a fine thing for that county.

NO. 12—SOME MORE HIGH JINKS

"Who will do the next act?" asked Old King Cole. "If we are going to have a stunt party everybody will have to do something."

"I will!" said Captain Kidd, the pirate, in a loud strong voice. "The Ten O'Clock Scholar made a deep bow and said:

"The land is flat, the ocean's deep, Till nine o'clock I love to sleep, Now I have done the best I can, So I shall stop and—and—"

The Ten O'Clock Scholar stood on one foot and then on the other, and he put his hands in his pockets and took them out again. And all the time he got redder and redder. "I can't think of the res," he said presently. "I can't finish it."

"Then we'll help you," said Old King Cole kindly. "Can anyone think of a word to rhyme with 'can'?"

"Man," said Nick. "Fan," said Nancy. "Ran Pan! Dan! Fan! Plan!" called a dozen voices.

"I have it!" said the Ten O'Clock Scholar. "I'll say it all over again. So he said:

"The land is flat, the ocean's deep, Till nine o'clock I love to sleep, Now I have done the best I can, Till I grow up to be a man."

"Just fine!" said Mister Dodger. "I think you will be a poet and write a book. Who will do the next stunt?"

"I know something," said the Chimney Sweep. "What can go up the chimneys down or down the chimney down, but cannot go up the chimney up or down the chimney up?"

"The people of High Jinks Land guessed for a quarter of an hour, but no one had the answer. "Give up!" said the Sweep. "I shall tell you. It's an umbrella."

When a man says never marry it is just because he doesn't know what kind of girls are in the world.

Be quiet. Then you'll know what others think of you. And they won't know what you think of them.

Don't tell all you know. It is discouraging to learn how little it really is. Sometimes one doesn't like another because they are alike, which is embarrassing.
